Yet the electricity produced by America's independent electric light and power companies matches the strength of a hundred million horses! That means there's always plenty of electricity behind your switch . . . enough to fill every need.

Those "horses" have a lot of owners. About 4 million direct owners, who hold securities of the electric companies . . . and more than 90 million Americans who are indirect owners through their bank savings, insurance premiums and pension funds.

Virginia Electric and Power Company, one of these independent companies, has a capacity of over 1,360,000 kilowatts, more than the strength of 1,800,000 horses. Vepco is owned by 32,500 shareholders, located in every state in the nation.

Very Few Loafers

Study, as Jo Hyde expresses it in a thoughtful article in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, "is both necessary and socially acceptable in college."

This conclusion was reached after extensive interviews with students on both sides of the University Lake. The views expressed by these young men and women may be indicative of a quickening interest in intellectual and cultural pursuits.

As Dean Marguerite Roberts says, "We get very few loafers these days."

Dean Robert F. Smart is also of the opinion that college students are more mature, more aware of their real purpose in attending college, less concerned with the horseplay that too often makes for glaring headlines and a distorted picture of campus life.

At any hour of the day and into the night students may be found at work in the library, and lights burn late in Thomas and Jeter and Wood halls, and in North and South Courts.

Students are becoming increasingly aware of the competition at the academic level and increasingly aware of the fact that dullards and triflers will not be permitted to occupy classroom and dormitory space that could be used to better purpose by those who have come to college to learn.

An evidence that students are maturing earlier is seen in the fact that marriages are being contracted by a surprisingly large number of undergraduates. These married men and women with family cares as well as academic responsibility are, in the main, making exceptionally good students. As Dean of Students C. J. Gray expressed it, a student doesn't want to be shamed by carrying home "a poor report card to a wife who is helping to work his way through college."

And the high school student who, in the words of his doting parents, "is really very intelligent and could do the work if he would apply himself," may never get an opportunity to apply himself in college. With applicants increasing as they are, colleges will be able to accept their full quota from among those who are prepared—and have demonstrated their preparedness.

HOMECOMING 1957

Audrey Lynn Moncure

Walter Clayton

EVERYONE at the University of Richmond from the president to the lowliest "rat" will join in putting out the welcome mat for the hundreds of old grads who are expected to return to the campus Homecoming weekend, November 8-9.

Returning alumnae and alumni will have separate programs on their respective sides of the University Lake Saturday morning and then will join in a noon luncheon at which the University will be host.

Rival fraternities and other campus organizations already are busily at work on their floats for the homecoming parade which will lead to City Stadium for the big football game between the Spiders and George Washington's strong eleven.

Attractive homecoming programs have been worked out by alumnae and alumni committees, headed by Mrs. Richard Moncure, '50, and Walter Clayton, '36.

The ladies will start the procession back to the campus with their annual dinner in the Westhampton Dining Room on Friday night which will be followed by after dinner coffee and a fine arts program in the reception room of Keller Hall. Participants in the program will be members of the dramatic department, the art department and the music department.

The drama department, under the direction of Alton Williams, will present a one-act play. Dr. John White, Mr. James Erb, and Mr. Robert Barker will give a trio for voice, clarinet and piano and Dr. Roy Jessom and Dr. Frederick Neumann will give a number for violin and piano.

The old grads will be back in force Saturday with the men beginning registration at 9 o'clock and the women a half hour later. A hockey game between Westhampton varsity and alumnae teams and a football game between Bullis Prep of Washington and the Spider Jay-Vees will enliven the morning program.

An unusual feature will be carillon music by Hilton Rufty, a member of the University's music department and Virginia's best known carillonneur. Seated at the keyboard in the tower of the Boatwright Memorial Library, Rufty will play appropriate music, including University of Richmond and Westhampton College songs.

Seven of Westhampton's loveliest, the Homecoming queen and her court, will ride at the head of the parade and will preside over all of the days' festivities. The queen will be crowned at a ceremony between the halves of the football game in City Stadium.

Later the queen will present the Miller & Rhoads trophy to the campus organization sponsoring the winning float and the Harvey Hudson ('42) trophy to the fraternity with the best float. There will be another trophy for the best entry, other than a float.

The Accent Is On Better

ALTHOUGH the enrollment for the first semester is the largest since 1948, University of Richmond officials were more impressed by evidences that the freshman classes in Richmond and Westhampton colleges are better prepared than any other entering classes in the school's history.

That was the report from Dean Robert F. Smart at Richmond College. That was the report from Dean Marguerite Roberts at Westhampton College. Both optimistic statements were based on the academic ranking of the freshmen in their graduating classes in high and preparatory schools and, perhaps even more important, their prowess on placement tests in mathematics and languages.

Westhampton College, continuing to justify a place among the nation's top-flight colleges for women, opened the 1957-58 session with dormitories jammed and with a number of students living in the homes of relatives and friends off campus. The enrollment of 490 was the highest on record; it could have been much higher had there been dormitory space and other facilities for a substantially larger student body.

Richmond College's student body was a few below last year's total despite the apparent paradox that more old students returned and there was an increase in the number of entering freshmen over the preceding year. The difference was in the sharp decrease in the number of students accepted as transfers from other colleges. Although emphasizing that he was not shutting the door on transfer students, Dr. Smart was adamant in his policy of accepting only those transfers "who clearly deserve a place in our student body."

The approximately 400 freshmen and a few transfers who finally were accepted for admission to Richmond College represented fewer than half of those who had sought admission.

The wisdom of the selection policy was reflected in the placement test grades which were the highest in the testing program of Richmond College.

At Westhampton where the academic level has been established on a very high plateau, freshman grades on the placement tests were again outstanding. Dean Marguerite Roberts was hopeful that the scores in the National College Freshman Program in which Westhampton participates will be up to last year's magnificently high standard.

Among the 77 colleges, men's and women's, which participated in the program, Westhampton freshmen ranked eleventh. Among the women's colleges of the same group it ranked second. On mathematics it ranked fourth among the 77 colleges. Of the 152 colleges, men's and women's, that took the English achievement tests, it ranked eighth, and of the women's colleges it ranked seventh.

It is easy to understand, as Dean Roberts pointed out, why only two of last year's freshmen were placed on academic probation at the close of the first semester. Both of them were able to pull up their grades during the second semester.

Both Dean Roberts and Dean Smart were outspoken in praise of the scholarship program which enables the University to offer

THE 1957-58 SESSION BEGINS with a formal convocation in Cannon Memorial Chapel. Seniors donned academic robes and marched with professors and other convocation dignitaries in a procession that formed at the Boatwright Memorial Library. Marshal Ralph C. McDanel, '16, leads the way. He is followed by Ellis West, president of Richmond College Student Government, who carries the University mace.

Penalties of Progress

By HELEN A. MONSELL, '16, Registrar, Richmond College

"I got a car—You got a car,
All Modlin's chillen got cars."

So sung, or could or should or would have sung, every dean, professor, staff member and student in the University when college opened this fall—or at least so Mr. Irvin B. Clarke, supervisor of buildings and grounds, feels they must have sung. Over nine hundred and fifty cars. Count 'em. Mr. Clarke did.

It is a problem that has snowballed tremendously from the halcyon days in 1915 when the Westhamptonites were singing

"And then we got a little dean
To ride around in her machine."

Of course an occasional car had been seen in and around the old campus. A certain red-haired lad whose father was reputed to be a millionaire used to take Co-eds, during their vacant periods, for a spin out Franklin St. and even as far as the Reservoir Park. The powers-that-were never frowned upon this extracurricular activity—because the Co-eds never let them know of its existence.

The red-haired lad was gone, though, before the Hegira to Westhampton, so that the college's first year on the new campus, with the exception of one or two day students, was carless. Considering the state of the roads, that was fortunate. There was one approach to the campus over a strip of corduroy guaranteed to make the driver's teeth rattle. Another led down the hill from Three Chopt. After surveying both approaches, a visiting aunt, who came to see me graduate, asked to be allowed to get out of the car and walk.

The campus roads, themselves, were as muddy as they were new, with frozen ruts as winter set in that jolted each bus load of Westhamptonites into fresh giggles with every jounce. Yes—there was a bus that first year, variously known as The Black Maria, the Hinky-dinky, and the Bust. Drawn by two mules, it met the early street cars and transported the day students to the Westhampton side of the lake. Presumably, it brought them back, but I can't seem to remember any return trips.

Under such circumstances, suit case-toting was a major activity. My estimation of both faculty and Richmond College students was in direct ratio to their willingness to utter those magic words, "May I take your suit case up the hill for you?" And be it remembered in their praise, those words were frequently spoken, both by reverend Ph.D.'s and by Rats who hadn't even been introduced! But there were times—and times—when no men appeared in the offing. Those were the days when the climb up Westhampton Hill was a long, long jaunt.

During that first year we must have worn out both mules and bus, for neither reappeared in 1915. It was then that Dean Keller's Ford appeared, and President Boatwright's car. The honor, though, of being the first dormitory student to own and operate a car on the campus seems to belong, on the Richmond College side of the lake, to James Boyd Patton, Jr., and on the Westhampton side to Virginia Truitt—Mrs. George H. Swann.

Now, cars in those days were born without such accessories as windshield wipers or heaters. Such trifles were still uninvented. You carried a ruler to thrust into the tank to find out how much gas you had. And when you saw a storm approaching, you pulled over to the side of the road, took out your car-curtains, and, if you were lucky, got them up before the floods descended. It really didn't make too much difference, though, because they always leaked anyway. Moreover, veils and goggles were no mere fripperies of fashion. They were stern necessities. Ventilation, brought about by turning a crank that raised the windshield, was about equal parts of air and dust. Such were the cars of the good old days—and worth every cent of the nearly four hundred dollars that they cost!

The possession of one of them carried with it distinct social responsibilities. (It still does. That is why deans have headaches.) Mr. Patton remembers that "as many students as I would let get in" would make the trip whither and wherever Mr. Patton went. Moreover, it wasn't fair to lock himself into his room to study while his eager public yearned for transportation to opera, vaudeville, chop suey and such-like attractions.

Mrs. Swann remembers equal distractions on a feminine scale. There was, for instance, the snowy Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving when the turkeys hadn't been delivered to the dining room. Off she tooled with the dietitian down a slippery Cary Street to the wholesale market district, returning with Westhampton's holiday dinner.

It wasn't until after World War I, though, when the college returned to the campus that the automobile became an integral part of campus life. More and more of them appeared yearly, until I remember standing at my office window one morning in the mid twenties and counting nineteen cars in the circle at Ryland Hall! I was sure the saturation point had been reached. The campus could hold no more.

But still they came—model T's, coupes, rumble seats, be-mottoed jalopies, woo-wagons, jeeps, puddle-jumpers, station wagons, convertibles. Many of them had personalities. Who will forget "Uncle Sam's" model T that brought the mail—and also as many

Science—Without Fiction

By MARK LUTZ, '26

The story of Franklin Institute's New Director of Museum Education, the Indispensable Robert W. Neathery, Jr., '27.

THE END of the world presents no more scientifically explained mysteries for Bob Neathery than the creation of the universe, and to him a rocket trip to the moon is as plausible as the reason for the seasons.

After all, science without fiction has been Bob's job for a long time now. During the past twelve years he has delivered to mopepots and the public in general, in Fels Planetarium at Philadelphia's famed Franklin Institute, more than 2,250 lectures, with between 300 to 400 listeners at each, on topics ranging from the origin of the calendar to superstitions about the moon.

Actually these lectures have been something of a sideline, for Bob's take home pay for fifteen years has been earned as a member of the science faculty at the Episcopal Academy in Philadelphia. Until two years ago, when the strain of the schedule became—even for Bob—too great, he also coached junior teams in baseball and football at the school. During his fifteen years at the Academy a new science building was erected, and the science faculty, which consisted of only two instructors when Bob joined the staff, has been doubled.

Since Bob has the knack of being indispensable it is not surprising that Franklin Institute has now latched on to him on a full time basis as Director of Museum Education. In his new position Bob will master mind a program which will reach yearly in excess of a quarter of a million children. The Museum Education Division supervises special school demonstrations in the Fels Planetarium, science films, lecture-demonstrations by eminent scientists, children's workshops, science fairs, service training for student teachers, and in-service courses for practising teachers. An important function of the Division is the Museum lesson in which (by using museum exhibits as visual aids) the Museum is integrated with class room studies.

One of the steps which led directly to Bob's new and highly important assignment was taken three years ago when he agreed to devote his entire summer vacations to the preparation of huge chemical tables, forty by twenty feet each, where the ninety-eight chemical elements were represented, along with their samples and applications. While this project was in progress one of the Philadelphia science societies, concerned over the shortage of scientific personnel, asked Bob to see what could be done among youngsters to stimulate an interest in science. Bob organized demonstrations and lectures on a three-day a week basis, but these proved so popular they had to be repeated, and the number of days devoted to each subject had to be increased. Other scientific groups, impressed with the handling of the original project, asked help in presenting their story to youth. As a result, what had begun in a comparatively small way worked into the major program now undertaken at the Museum Education Division.

Those who know Bob are aware that, in addition to having enough energy to shame a dynamo, he has a creative enthusiasm for whatever subject he undertakes. His talks on even the most erudite of themes are never of the dry, pedantic kind. Instead they take on a glow, an originality and an inspiration which fires the imagination of his audience.

All of us who remember Bob Neathery recall that in addition to receiving enviable grades he also earned, at various outside jobs, enough to keep himself in cakes and 'shakes

Gridmen Blow Hot and Cold

By J. EARLE DUNFORD, JR., '48

WITH NEARLY HALF its schedule gone, the Spider football team, strangely, had its followers still wondering how good it was.

The record read 2-2. First, there were surprisingly easy wins over East Carolina College and Randolph-Macon. Neither team was conceded a prayer of beating Richmond, but the final scores were 40-7 over ECC and 40-0 over Randolph-Macon.

In what was considered one of the toughest games on the schedule, the Spiders bowed only 12-7 to a University of Dayton team that scored in the final two minutes and then barely halted a Richmond drive goalward.

But the Spiders got their lumps the next week at City Stadium in a game that from the U.R. standpoint was as miserable as the damp, raw weather. Richmond teams have been noted for their defensive play for the past six years, but seldom in that time has a Merrick-coached team looked so pitiful on defense. Final score: V.M.I., 28; Richmond, 6.

(As THE BULLETIN went to press, the Spiders lost to The Citadel, 26 to 0.—Ed.)

The week before the V.M.I. game Spider alumni were glowing over the performance against Dayton. The two games contrasted strangely as the gridders came to the break in the season. After an open weekend, there were games away against The Citadel, Rutgers and V.P.I. and at home against George Washington, Davidson and William & Mary.

Despite the performance against the Keydets, there were some bright points and reason for optimism.

Junior halfbacks David Ames and Mickey Marinkov, a pair of elusive 170-pounders who stand under six feet, had scored 18 and 26 points, respectively, and had shown plenty of speed. Joe Biscaha, a junior end, was developing into a steadier player and had scored at Dayton on a spectacular pass play.

The line play, which disappointed against V.M.I., was magnificent at Dayton as again and again the Flyers were stopped short of the goal line.

Freshman Bob Buffman, 230, was a standout as were veterans like co-captain Dick Eaton, Sonny Deane, Fred Wilt, Gene Barkocy and Pat Lamberti.

Game-by-game, here's the way the Spiders went:

RICHMOND, 40; EAST CAROLINA, 7—It was much the same story as last year, when the Spiders romped, 45-7. This year five Richmonders got into the touchdown act in the game at Portsmouth. Joe Biscaha scored first, taking an 11-yard aerial from junior quarterback Jerry Landis four minutes after the start of the second quarter. The next TD came in the same period, as senior quarterback Jim Hoffman completed a 66-yard drive with a 38-yard pass to Marinkov.

The Spiders scored three times in the third period. Landis tossed a lateral to Ames who dashed 40 yards for the first score. Four plays later Lamberti recovered an ECC fumble on the Pirates' 20. Then junior fullback Buddy Davis bulled his way to the 9 from the 25 after a Richmond penalty. Marinkov scored from the 2 three plays later.

The third TD of the period came as sophomore quarterback Joe Rossetti went over from the 1 after a 17-yard drive, featuring a 54-yard yard dash by John Boggs, a freshman fullback. Art D'Arrigo, a freshman halfback, picked up the final touchdown, in the fourth period on a 1-yard plunge. The Spiders had gotten the ball following an ECC fumble on its own 20. Marinkov kicked three extra points, and Lamberti, one.

ECC scored its lone TD in the fourth period as Bob Maynard scored from the 2 and Carlton Mathews converted.

RICHMOND, 40; RANDOLPH-MACON, 0—Unfamiliar Spider names were in the news as UR, in its first home game, reeled off its first touchdown within two minutes and scored in every quarter.

Mickey Marinkov skirted end for 33 yards for the first TD and David Ames counted twice—once on an 11-yard run and once on a 49-yard runback of a pass interception—but the youngsters accounted for the rest.

Bob Dunnington, a 170-pound sophomore from Richmond, tallied from the 2 early in the third period to cap a 70-yard drive. Earlier in the game, Dunnington had pulled one of the most spectacular plays of the night. He hauled in a Jacket punt on his own 40, eluded several would-be tacklers and crossed the goal—to no avail, as a holding penalty cancelled the score. The fifth UR score was by another local boy, freshman Carlton Rowe, a 200-pound halfback. Rowe smashed over from the 3 after Richmond several plays earlier had recovered a Randolph-Macon fumble deep in Jacket territory.

An Adventure In Understanding

By NANCY GOODWYN*

"WHAT ABOUT DIVORCE in America?" "Does everyone have a car?" Do many families have maids?" These are some of the questions I was asked in Italy this summer during my stay with an Italian family. What an experience it was to live with these people, to participate in their activities, to learn their customs, and at the same time to see what they think of America! From the contacts I made (my ideas are gathered almost entirely from English-speaking Italians unless someone translated for me), I discovered several misconceptions which had been established from movies or reading material.

First of all most Italians think of Americans as wealthy people, all of whom have automobiles, mansions, and maids. Although many of the upper middle class homes in Italy have maids, my Italian home did not; instead the mother and two daughters did the housework. Since I was to be an extra daughter for the summer, I tried to make myself useful when dishwashing time came around. But my Italian mother, surprised that an American would offer to help in the kitchen, refused my help. It was quite a while before I could convince her that we had no maids in my home in America and that we young people are used to doing things around the house.

Another thing they all wondered about was the divorce rate in America. They've heard much about divorce from the movies, newspapers, and magazines; and it was hard for them to realize that all of America is not like Hollywood and Broadway. One girl told me, "Americans get married easier than Italians. Perhaps that is why the marriages don't last." By this she meant that many Americans get married on short acquaintances; this is rare in Italy, for generally a girl never goes out with a man who hasn't been among her immediate circle of friends for some time. Since in well-respected homes a girl does not go out alone with a man unless she has intentions of marriage, most of the dating is done in groups; and there is more necessity for longer acquaintances before marriage. Another reason for their concern over the American divorce rate stems from their religion. Since most of Italy is Catholic, divorce is not accepted; and it is hard for them to conceive of being married more than once when so much of their emphasis is placed on the home and family.

Among the most impressive features of Italian culture is this close family relationship and the centering of interest around the home. Since married women rarely seek employment, they spend much more time in the home with their families than many American women do; and they are not drawn away from the home by a myriad of civic organizations. In Italy such groups simply do not exist. Working hours in Italy are roughly from 9 to 12 in the morning and 3 to 8 in the evening, so that all working men can go home for the mid-day meal. This arrangement allows the men to eat a leisurely dinner, have a short rest afterwards, and to spend more time with the children during the day. Even young people seem more content to stay at home and spend more time doing things with the family.

Before this summer, I had always pictured

*Miss Goodwyn, president of College Government at Westhampton, spent the summer in Italy as Richmond's Community Ambassador. Her trip was sponsored by 43 Richmond civic organizations. Richmond is one of some 70 American cities which sponsor such trips abroad in the interest of world peace and understanding. Richmond's first Community Ambassador, in 1954, was James A. Moncure, now a member of the history faculty at the University.

Italians as short and dark in appearance. Since this description fits only the Southern Italians, I was surprised when I met my friends of the North. Many of these people are very similar to Americans in appearance and, on the whole, they're just slightly darker than the average American. There are blonds as well as brunettes; and fair-skinned Italians are certainly not rare around Bergamo, the region in which I lived.

Just as in our own country we find sectional differences in opinion and attitude, so it is in Italy; but since Italy is such a small country I was surprised to find such a strong sectional feeling in the North toward the South. One day my Italian sister and I were out walking in the village when she pointed out several young boys, strangers in town, and said, "They're from the South." In our own country it would be ridiculous to make such a judgment at first sight, so I asked her for an explanation. She said they were shorter, darker, and—dirty. Upon closer observation I could distinguish the difference in stature and coloring, but I found the last part of her description a bit biased. The general feeling of the industrial North toward the more agrarian South is that the Southern Italians are lazy and un-progressive. This may or may not be true, but it did appear to me that poverty is more evident in the lower part of Italy than farther north.

I had always heard that most Europeans used segregation as a mark against the United States; therefore, I was quite interested to find out the thoughts of some of my Italian friends on this issue. The discussion first came up when one of the girls said she was afraid of all people with black skins, including other races, such as the Indian. When I tried to find out the reasoning behind her statement, I was only told that they were different, strange, and scary. Then, as I was thinking how much this attitude toward segregation differed from what I had anticipated, she added that she couldn't understand why we wouldn't let them go to school with us. By this time I wasn't sure what the attitude was, so I explained that only a part of our country was against integration and asked her how she would feel if she were faced with a similar problem in Italy. To this she replied, "It would be no problem, because I wouldn't be afraid of people with dark skins if I could see more of them; and then we certainly wouldn't keep them out of our schools."

Another Italian offered two alternatives: "Send all the Negroes back to Africa or allow the races to be mixed."

Perhaps I shouldn't have mentioned either of these views, which are simply individual opinions and not ideas representative of the Italian people as a whole, yet these comments can be of some interest in a consideration of attitudes.

Once or twice I tried to stimulate conversations on Italian politics and government, but the young people were reluctant to talk about politics, so I was able to learn very little. Opinions on Mussolini varied. A num-

Rosemary: That's for Remembrance

"Strike warm your cordial hands,
Good Hearts, from many lands
Returned again . . ."

While the older grads are chiming in on these lines from an old Alumni Reunion song to the tune of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," let's acquaint the younger grads with their author—LaFayette Rupert Hamberlin, the Poet Laureate of Richmond College.

Mr. Hamberlin was born in Mississippi some two months before the boys in Gray sent their shells screaming over Fort Sumter. He was educated at Mississippi College, Richmond College and Harvard University; taught preparatory schools in Louisiana and Tennessee; was the first teacher of Speech (then called Elocution or Expression) in Richmond College, 1890-1892; taught elocution or English at the University of North Carolina, the University of Texas and Vanderbilt.

Our Poet Laureate entered Richmond College in 1882. During his first year he won the Steel Medal for reading and the Woods Medal for public declamation, and was final President of Mu Sigma Rho. After promulgating the knowledge for six years in the South, he returned to Richmond College to finish his B.A. requirements while he was encouraging his fellow students to elocute properly.

Mr. Hamberlin had published poems before he came to Richmond College. His first volume, called Lyrics, came from the press in 1880. Seven Songs followed in 1887, Alumni Lilts and Other Lines in 1892, A Batch of Rhymes in 1893, Verses, in 1895, and Rhymes of the War in 1899.

Perhaps his best known poem is "Flossie," an old miner's story. "The College Bell" and "Strike Warm Your Cordial Hands" will bring more tingles down your spinal column. Speaking of tingles, boys, just listen to this:

Should you ask me what I know of
That wild mystery, a woman,—
Of her mind, with all its fancies,
All its whims and intuitions—

Read the rest of the poem yourself in Alumni Lilts.

With poems such as these Mr. Hamberlin made quite a hit while teaching at your Alma Mater. A handsome man, our Poet Laureate was a graceful and attractive speaker, a popular teacher, a polished actor, and a delightful entertainer, indulging with equal effect in the humorous, the pathetic and the tragic. One of his Richmond College students said: "I'd rather be with Hamberlin an hour than to talk with my best girl." Does any more need to be said!

The remains of the Poet Laureate rest in Hollywood Cemetery in our own city, which was the native city of Mr. Hamberlin's wife, Miss Lily Wilson.

And now let's all sing these lines from the Reunion song. Let's sing with the same spirit that Mr. Hamberlin felt toward his beloved Richmond College:

With mind, with heart, with hand,
For her best weal we stand,—
And faithless him we brand
Who shames her brow.

—WOODFORD B. HACKLEY

ber of the Italians I talked with emphasized what they termed constructive changes he brought about for the good of the country. Most of them were willing to admit, however, that toward the end of his regime, his motives became selfish and his policies dictatorial.

These are some of the impressions that I gained by living only a short time in Italy. Some of the Italians' ideas about the United States are true, other are not; but the concept of the "Experiment" is "that world peace and understanding will prosper as peoples really learn to talk to peoples."

Certainly my one short summer has helped me in my quest for understanding; I hope that as one representative American I helped them understand what kind of people we are in the United States and how earnestly we are united in our desire for world peace.

substantial scholarships to outstanding graduates of high and preparatory schools. During the current year the University will give a total of $110,000 in scholarships, some of them based on financial need but others based solely on the academic ability and the character of the students. Most of the larger scholarships were made possible by a bequest of $2,700,000 by the late A. D. Williams. In addition to the Williams scholarships which range upward to $2,000 for the four-year period, many top students in Virginia high schools are attracted by the scholarships which are awarded to winners in the University of Richmond-WRVA Radio Scholarship Quiz.

Williams scholarships are available not only to students in the two undergraduate colleges but also are awarded to outstanding applicants for admission to The T. C. Williams School of Law and the School of Business Administration.

Reports from deans of the University's six divisions were made at the opening convocation in the Luther H. Jenkins Greek Theater on September 26. In perfect early autumn weather the academic procession formed at Boatwright Memorial Library and moved across the lake to Cannon Memorial Chapel.

There the students were reminded of the value of a college education by H. I. Willett, superintendent of Richmond's public schools. He told the students that Russia is spending twice as much money and is educating twice as many men and women as are being trained in American colleges and universities. They pricked up their ears when he said Russian students receive pay for attending classes.

Most of the training is at the scientific and technical level, he said, with little interest in the humanities and with a distorted interest in history.

The need today, Willett said, is for "human engineers that are propaganda proof."

He told the students that other countries not only "are looking to us but they are sending representatives here to study us in order to determine whether or not the American brand of democracy in our republic is something that they want to follow. They are also interested in appraising our Judeo-Christian faith."

"Since other countries are appraising us," he added, "it is doubly important that we appraise ourselves to determine whether or not we are tending to grow soft mentally, physically and spiritually."

At the close of his address the deans reported enrollments totaling 4048 students, a slight increase over the 4012 of the previous year. This included more than 1200 part-time students in night classes of the School of Business Administration.

The increase in the student body pointed up anew the need for additional dormitories, particularly new dormitories for men. Wood Hall, into which students moved last year, offered dormitory facilities for 76 additional

1895 ESAU BROOKS 1957

Where's Eas?

Alumni athletes of yesteryear upon returning to Millhiser Gymnasium invariably asked this question. Told that he was on the field, or in the equipment room, or in the training room, the visitor would go to pay his respects to Esau Brooks.

Esau had rubbed the kinks out of the weary muscles of Mr. Frank Dobson's boys, and had soothed torn ligaments and strapped the ailing shoulders and shins of Mr. Glenn Thistlethwaite's boys.

He had ministered to the University's athletic greats, working tenderly and skillfully with hands that seemed to possess the magic of healing. He had taped the wounds of Mr. Mac Pitt when he was a half-pint quarterback and taped the wounds of Mr. Ed Merrick when he was playing center for the University of Richmond. He gave the same care to the athletic warriors of another generation when Pitt and Merrick returned to coach University teams and direct the institution's athletic policies.

Esau was no hero-worshipper. All men counted alike with him and he gave the same attention to the painful charleyhorse of an intramural scrub as he did to the wounds of the gridiron great. He was humble but never obsequious and he had a dignity that made him at home in any company.

Eas was an institution and like all institutions ageless, although the obituary notice said he was 62 years old. He had been at the University of Richmond since 1914.

When he perished in the fire that destroyed his frame house on Ridge Road near the University campus, he left behind very little of this world's goods. But he left a host of friends, black and white, who gathered in the Mount Vernon Baptist Church to say a fond farewell.

All agreed that Eas was a gentle soul with all of the attributes of a gentleman. He was kind and good. He knew how to laugh, an infectious, throaty chuckle.

Laughter came but seldom to Eas during the last weeks of his life. With the death of his devoted wife, Willie, Esau lost the post to which his life had been securely tied. When he no longer could go home to Willie when the day was done, Esau spent most of his waking hours inside Millhiser Gymnasium.

Just a few hours before death came to Esau Brooks, he had been hard at work in the training room, patching wounds and getting Mr. Ed Merrick's boys ready for their game with The Citadel.

students but several dormitories are desperately needed.

They will be needed even more in the years immediately ahead if the University is to take care of its share of the army of well-trained students who will be seeking admission.

New dormitories, a building to house the School of Business Administration, and a fine arts building head the listing of new structures needed for the University development.

girls as could crowd on? Or Coach Dobson's open Buick, with its side-curtains? Or Miss Harris's coupe? Or Dean Pinchbeck's Leaping Lena? Or Billy Grant's little number with the striped awning top?

With World War II the onward rush of campus cars came to an abrupt halt. There were no new cars; there was no gas for the old ones.

"My sister isn't going back to college this fall," a young girl told me.

"That's too bad," I murmured.

"Well, I don't blame her. What with all the boys in the service and no gas to go anywhere weekends, herself, there is nothing left for a girl to do in college, these days."

But after the war—Bingo! It was then that the parking problem first reared its ugly head. For the first time the pine-tree tract by Ryland Hall was invaded by jeep drivers who negotiated its ruts with veteran skill. But the wooded strip wasn't enough. More cars kept coming, and more and more. Between 1952 and 1957 the number on the campus rose from 350 to 950. Greensward and woods slowly gave way before them. Parking lots appeared by the dormitories, by the chapel, by the Social Center building—everywhere.

And, as Irvin Clarke, the superintendent of buildings and grounds, points out, it isn't so much the parking; it's the congestion. At the end of each class period, all nine hundred and fifty car owners seem to want to get somewhere else at the same time. The result is a fruit-basket change that makes Broad Street at five o'clock look like a country pasture!

Mr. Clarke sighs for the good old days when students knew how to use their feet for something else than stepping on the gas. Botanists mourn the rare clump of lady slippers now ground beneath the gravel of a new parking lot. Romanticists are reluctant to admit that the multicolored car tops beneath our Gothic windows equal in beauty the disappearing lawns and wooded knolls of the campus. But such are the penalties of progress.

The cure for nostalgia is to remember the past in toto, or not at all. That toto must include the weary hours spent on street car sidings, the long treks across campus, the colds caught while waiting on stormy days for street cars off the tracks.

To get where you want when you want to—that has been the slogan of Young America since oxen first labored over wilderness trails. Why should we expect it to be changed today?

"Don't worry," says young America. "It won't be. Just wait until the helicopter hits the campus."

at the Student Shop. However crowded the schedule, moreover, he also found time to be stage manager of the University Players (he won a key for his dramatic work with the group), to sing with the Glee Club, write for the Collegian, and to be one of the originators of the Harlequin Club.

Bob did post graduate work at Columbia, Temple and the University of Pennsylvania. Somewhere along the line he taught in the New York public school system and in the Wooster School in Danbury, Conn. At one point he decided to become an engineer and was with the Western Electric Company in that capacity, but education and teaching won out and he returned to his school work.

For the past ten years Bob has served on the Science Committee on the Secondary Education Board, and he has just completed a five year tenure as a member of the Chemistry Examiners Committee of the College Entrance Board of which he was chairman last year. He is also a member of a formidable number of distinguished professional and honorary organizations concerned with astronomy, science and teaching.

Although teaching by day at the Episcopal Academy and lecturing at night and weekends at Franklin Institute would fill the waking hours of most folks, Bob has also since June of last year, found the time somehow to conduct a Sunday afternoon program over Philadelphia's Radio Station WRCV. On this program Bob sets himself up as a target and a couple of bright young people fire questions at him on such subjects as the whys of hurricanes, the hows of Northern lights and the intricacies of the chemistry of the world, light, color, sound.

(Bob has just begun telecasting weather over Channel 12, Station WVUE-TV, under General Electric sponsorship. The time is 11:15 p.m. on Monday, 11:00 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.—Ed.)

Bob, who is the son of the late Rev. R. W. Neathery, '99, is a church layreader and a more than casual communicant at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Ardmore. Incidentally, the assistant rector there is the Rev. Larry M. Seyler, '50.

Some years ago the former Katherine S. Allen, of Dover Plains, N. Y., a graduate of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, became Mrs. Neathery. The couple has one daughter, Rosemary Ann, who recently married Robert F. Alwell, III, a graduate of Annapolis. The newlyweds currently live at Pensacola, Fla., where Ensign Alwell is stationed as a member of the Air Arm of the Navy.

Oh yes, if you are interested in Bob's earlier mentioned knowledge about the end of the world take comfort (or scare yourself) with his theory that in the foreseeable future it won't be nature but man's own rash actions that may doom him. His ideas on the creation of the universe, the feasibility of a trip to the moon, and the alliterative reason for the seasons are much better explained by Bob and if you have never been to Franklin Institute then you are advised to visit it and to see its marvels and have Bob show you the fundamental applications of science in the Museum or a reproduction of the night skies, . . . past, present or future in the Fels Planetarium.

tory. The final score came after the Jackets lost another fumble—this one on their 21. Freshman quarterback Jim Boger, a Lebanon, Pa., boy ran 16 yards, and Rowe picked up four more and Boger pushed over.

Mickey Marinkov converted four times.

DAYTON, 12; RICHMOND, 7—Merrick-coached teams are noted for their defense and this was a game to prove the point. It also was a game to show the Spiders have an offense and they also have what is euphemistically called intestinal fortitude.

The Flyers were favored to win this one—and they did, by a hair. Until the last two minutes, it looked as if the Spiders' TD in the first nine minutes would stand. The score followed a UR recovery of a Dayton fumble on the Dayton 31. Ames and Marinkov moved the ball to the 12. Landis made five around end and with a fourth down on the Dayton 7, passed to Joe Biscaha. The 6-2 end maneuvered around three defenders (one of whom deflected the ball) and caught the pass for a touchdown. (The catch was a factor in Biscaha being chosen lineman of the week in Virginia by The Times-Dispatch sports staff.) Mickey Marinkov added the most important extra point.

Dayton cut the margin to one point before the half. A 57-yard drive, including one run that ate up 39 yards, ended as Dayton's fullback plunged over from the 1. But the extra-point try was wide.

Six times before the end of the half, Dayton was inside the Richmond 40 with first downs. No time did the Flyers score. On the deepest penetration, incomplete passes, a 4-yard loss on an attempted pass and four penalties thwarted the drive.

In the fourth period, the Spiders continued to hold—once when the Flyers had a first down on the Richmond 13 and ended up surrendering the ball on the 17 and again when they couldn't tally on four plays inside the 9-yard line. Then, with the ball on their own 40, a 57-yard pass connected and seconds later (with 1:47 remaining) the Flyers jumped to a 12-7 lead.

But it wasn't over. With the ball on his own 44, Richmond's Jerry Landis looped a screen pass to Bob Dunnington, who scampered to the Dayton 15. An interference call on the next pass gave the Spiders a first down on the Dayton 11, with 25 seconds to go.

Landis faded back again, threw the ball—and Dayton intercepted. That was it.

V.M.I., 28; RICHMOND, 6—The Keydets always field a speedy, tricky, spirited ball club that will put on a good show against anyone. This time was no exception. But the V.M.I. performance was more sparkling than usual because of a brilliant array of backs, and the Spider defense was as poor as it has been in perhaps any game since Merrick took over.

In one spurt the Spiders looked good. That was in the second quarter when, trailing 14-0, they drove 72 yards to a TD, with Buddy Davis driving over from the 2. Ames had two good runs in the drive, one an 18-yarder. Quarterback Landis set up the score by dashing 15 yards to the 2. Marinkov's conversion was good. But a penalty nullified it and his second try was unsuccessful.

After the Spiders had staved off additional V.M.I. threats, UR alumni at halftime figured a good spurt might give their boys the game, even though two TD's would be required.

That was simply wishful thinking.

Ames sat out the second half with a bruised leg. But it's doubtful if he and tackle Pat Lamberti, also a second half benchsitter, could have changed the complexion of the game. V.M.I. couldn't be stopped and Richmond couldn't start. The Spiders seemed at times to have forgotten the fundamentals of tackling.

The Keydets' 14-6 halftime advantage was the result of a 98-yard drive and of an 18-yard push following V.M.I.'s recovery of Ames' fumble of the ensuing kickoff. The Keydets scored in the third period on a 38-yard run and in the four quarter on an end run with 1:25 left. The Keydet backfield of Sam Woolwine, Duke Johnston, Pete Johnson and Bobby Jordan left little to be desired.

V.M.I. rolled up 254 yards on the ground to Richmond's 133. The Spiders' passing record: two of 10 attempts for minus 16 yards.

By contrast, UR had totalled 302 yards rushing and 81 passing against ECC; 281 and 41, rushing and passing, respectively, against Randolph-Macon, and 117 and 71 against Dayton (which had roughly twice that amount in each department).

Perhaps the worst was over. But no remaining team was a pushover and V.P.I., William and Mary and Rutgers would be especially tough.

U OF R ATTORNEY DEFENDS IN 600 MURDER TRIALS

W. A. Daugherty, '08, a Pikeville, Ky., lawyer, may hold some kind of a courtroom record.

The possible record, as related by Gerald Griffin in an article appearing in the Louisville Courier-Journal Magazine, is this:

Mr. Daugherty "has been defense counsel in more than 600 murder cases during his 55 years of practice in the mountainous corner of Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia; and not one of his clients ever was executed. Only one of them was sentenced to death. But "Judge" (an honorary title) Daugherty induced the Governor of West Virginia to pardon that one."

The article recounts some of the Pikeville attorney's more celebrated cases and calls Mr. Daugherty "a philosopher with a deep respect for the law."

Mr. Daugherty told his interviewer that he "certainly had a wonderful time as a lawyer. It has been just as natural for me to practice law as it was for me to grub grubs and plow the land when I was a boy. If it's not in a fellow to be a lawyer, you just can't put it in him."

HENRY TAYLOR RETIRES AS AGRICULTURE REPORTER

Henry M. Taylor, '12, who chronicled Virginia's agricultural growth for a third of a century, retired September 30.

Mr. Taylor's retirement came after continuous service since 1919, except for a five-year stretch of World War II army duty, as head of the Virginia Co-operative Crop Reporting Service.

In his role as chief agricultural statistician, Mr. Taylor issued monthly reports on crop conditions and estimates of yield and production. In addition, his office produced annual summary reports on crops and livestock, weekly reports during the growing season and numerous special reports dealing with many phases of Virginia agriculture.

The federal-state statistician was adviser for many years to state and federal farm officials. In 1955, he was the recipient of a United States Department of Agriculture award for superior service.

In 1956, he was cited again by the federal agency, this time for "outstanding service in planning and directing the Virginia Federal-State Crop Reporting Service and invaluable assistance in planning nationwide crop reporting and census programs.

On the eve of his retirement, the Richmond Times-Dispatch paid editorial tribute to Mr. Taylor. The editorial said in part:

"Mr. Taylor is the sort of officeholder who is found too rarely in this or any other country. Efficient, thorough, cooperative, courteous—always 'on top of his job' and able to deal effectively with the myriad questions which come to a man in his position—his service has been conspicuously good.

"It has been a material factor in promoting farm prosperity in Virginia, for the vital facts which Mr. Taylor's office made available to the people of the Commonwealth, and particularly the farmers, have been of substantial help in making Virginia's agricultural population prosperous."

PHILOLOGIANS LEARN FROM OLDEST PREXY

Present members of the University's Philologian Literary Society have learned firsthand of the society's activities more than a half century ago.

To the oldest living past president of the society, the present members extended an invitation to describe the society's program near the turn of the century. This assignment went to Dr. John W. C. Cammack of 4700 Brook Rd., who was president of the Philologian Literary Society (and also winner of the society's best debater's medal) 58 years ago.

The meeting with the Philologists was one of the high spots during a spring period when Dr. Cammack marked a number of anniversaries.

June, particularly, was a noteworthy month for the retired Baptist minister, who is a former president of Averett College and former chaplain at Fork Union Military Academy.

During June, alone, he celebrated the 60th anniversary of the date of his ordination as a minister, the 52nd anniversary of the date he received his certificate of graduation from the school of philosophy at the University of Virginia, and the 44th anniversary of the date he received the honorary degree of doctor of divinity.

Although officially retired, Dr. Cammack is busily engaged now as supply minister and adviser to congregations seeking full-time pastors.

JOHNSONS LEAD CELEBRATION OF INDONESIAN HOSPITAL

In the words of Mrs. W. B. Johnson, wife of an American missionary, it was a "day long to be remembered by Baptists in Indonesia."

The day was February 28. The place Kediri, Indonesia. On that day, Mrs. Johnson wrote in a recent issue of the Religious Herald, "we were celebrating the formal opening and dedication of our first Baptist hospital in Indonesia and two years since the opening of the first clinic."

At the dedication, the article stated, her husband, the Rev. W. B. Johnson, '21, "spoke along general lines to clear up some possible misconceptions."

Mr. Johnson, who is treasurer of the Indonesian Baptist Mission, said at the dedication program:

"We came to Indonesia in 1951 with just the program of Jesus Christ who 'went about teaching, preaching and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of diseases.' The money for this hospital was not given by rich Americans, but by Christian people, members of our Southern Baptist Churches, people like you and me. They gave the money for this hospital because they love the Lord and the Indonesian people.

"The Southern Baptist Mission does not want subsidy from the Indonesian government. These missionary doctors and nurses do not get their salaries from money made in this hospital, but are paid by our Foreign Mission Board. This hospital is an expression of the desire of the Christian people of America to provide a good place for medical healing of sick people in Indonesia, a service rendered in the spirit and love of Jesus Christ. Our missionary doctors and nurses have the best training available in America. They have dedicated their lives to ministering to the sick in the spirit of the Lord."

SAMUEL HAUSER PILOTS PEOPLES LIFE TO NEW RECORD

There's no question in Samuel W. Hauser's mind as to why Peoples Life Insurance Company of Washington has enjoyed rapid growth.

Mr. Hauser, '29, president of the company since 1944, told a Washington interviewer that "the growth of this company is due to the combined efforts of some 1,600 persons who work for it. Peoples Life is fortunate in having a well-trained agency force with high morale, backed by an efficient home office staff. The results speak for themselves."

The results do speak well. In 1944, when Mr. Hauser became president, Peoples Life had assets totaling $24,759,459 and insurance in force amounting to $267 million. Twelve years later, at the end of 1956, assets stood at $110 million and insurance in force at $592.5 million.

This growth is continuing. Spurred by a "Trip to Bermuda" campaign in which some 1,000 men and their wives will take all expenses paid trips to Bermuda, the amount of insurance in force at the end of June, 1957, had reached a record $637 million.

Company officials now are looking forward to the time when Peoples Life will move into a new four million dollar home office building that will give the company three times the amount of space now available in the 12-story building purchased in 1924.

Mr. Hauser joined Peoples Life as an actuary in 1935 after serving for 15 years as an examiner and assistant actuary with the Virginia State Bureau of Insurance and Banking. The state job meant constant traveling and "I was in the mood to listen to a job offer that meant staying in one place and sleeping at home," he explained to an interviewer.

In two-year jumps, he served successively—and successfully—as assistant secretary and actuary (1938), secretary and treasurer (1940), vice president and treasurer (1942) and president (1944).

Mr. Hauser, who is married and has one son, a student at American University, makes his home in Arlington. His favorite pastime is gardening and his specialty is tomatoes—"I've been growing them for 21 years."

SANFORD, GRIGG JOIN TEXAS PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

Dr. Fillmore H. Sanford, '35 (right), and Dr. Austin Grigg, '40, are now working together in the psychology department at the University of Texas in Austin.

can Psychologist, is professor of psychology at the University of Texas.

Dr. Grigg, who taught at Alma Mater from 1948 to 1955, is assistant professor.

On August 27, Dr. Grigg's wife, Helen, presented him a 7-pound, 3-ounce son who has been named Kenneth Carver Grigg.

AN ADDITION OF 30,000 SQUARE FEET will increase by one-third the size of the plant of the rapidly growing A. H. Robins Company, Inc. The addition will adjoin the present plant (at the left of the insert of President E. Claiborne Robins, '31.)

A. H. ROBINS CO. EXPANDS PLANT

Once again plant expansion has become a necessity at A. H. Robins Company, Inc., Richmond's steadily-growing pharmaceutical firm, which has mushroomed in recent years under the leadership of E. Claiborne Robins, '31.

Now rated among the nation's top ten drug manufacturers, with medical service representatives in many foreign countries and covering every community in the United States, A. H. Robins has nearly 200 employees at its home plant here and over 500 in the field on its sales staff. In addition there are warehouse and office personnel at its branches in Montreal, Canada; Dallas, Texas, and Los Angeles, California.

Increases in research projects and over-all business has induced Robins to add more than 30,000 square feet of space at the home plant at 1407 Cummings Drive, where the firm moved not quite five years ago when it outgrew its Ellen Road quarters. In 1953, the new multi-million dollar plant was finished and considered of a size that would not demand expansion for many years.

But, grow the company did, and the over-half a million dollars expansion construction that started in mid-September may within another five years again become inadequate.

E. Claiborne Robins is the grandson of Albert Hartley Robins, founder of A. H. Robins Company in 1878, a Confederate Army veteran who saw four years of service as a member of Mahone's Brigade in the defense of Richmond. It was nearly 80 years ago that Robins placed its first product on the market. The company was then an "ethical" manufacturer, and it still is today, with, of course, many more products lining the shelves of drug stores in all parts of the world.

Albert Hartley relinquished the manufacturing end of the business to his son, Claiborne, around 1900, but continued to operate his drugstore on East Marshall street until 1920 and lived to the grand old age of 96. Claiborne, a graduate of the University of Richmond (Robins Field is named in his honor) and the School of Pharmacy at the Medical College of Virginia, died unexpectedly in 1912, leaving his widow, Martha, and son, E. Claiborne, then two years old.

Mrs. Robins carried on operations through the good and bad years of the 'twenties and early 'thirties, when her son became actively associated in management of the company. A graduate of the University of Richmond (B.A., Class of '31) and of the Medical College of Virginia's School of Pharmacy (B.S., '33) Claiborne took over the presidency of A. H. Robins Company, Inc., in April of 1936, upon his mother's retirement. (Mrs. Robins died in a Richmond hospital on Sunday, September 22nd at the age of 74.)

Starting out with a small amount of borrowed capital (on a personal signature from the Central National Bank, of which he is now a director) Claiborne visited physicians throughout the nation and established a routine that some years later was to see the company grow to its present stature in the pharmaceutical world.

E. Claiborne (the E. is for Edwin) married Lora E. McGlassen of Waco, Texas, in June of 1938. They have three children, Lora Elizabeth, born in October of 1940, E. Claiborne, Jr., born in August of 1943, and Ann Carol, born in October of 1945.

So in three generations the ethical pharmaceutical business has been operated and wholly-owned by the Robins family. The firm now includes A. H. Robins Company, Inc., A. H. Robins Company of Canada, Ltd., and A. H. Robins Inter-American Corporation.

ROBERTS DEVELOPS TESTING DEVICE FOR BUREAU

Aaron G. Roberts, '33, a member of the staff of the National Bureau of Standards, has developed, in conjunction with another member of the staff, an instrument which is making possible quick and accurate readings in the field of adhesion testing.

The ever-increasing speeds of modern aircraft have made necessary test methods to determine the adhesion property of protective coatings for these aircraft.

From the tests made by the Bureau of Standards there emerged several instruments for measuring adhesion, among them the adherometer. This apparatus measures the force required to strip a coating from a metal surface. A coating sample, mounted on a motor-driven plate, travels under a weighted knife. The variable stripping force encountered as the coating is removed is reflected on a dial gage. But this variable force is difficult to follow by dial gage readings; the process of recording and averaging many readings during a stripping run is lengthy and laborious. Results obtained were not always reliable.

To increase the speed, ease and precision with which adherometer measurements could be made, Roberts and his associate, R. S. Pizer, developed an electronic averaging device known as the integrometer. It converts the variable stripping force measured by the adherometer into electric impulses. These impulses are then added to give a single average value which can be read directly from a standard recorder.

The integrometer already has proved its worth in the laboratory and is expected to be of increasing value in the testing program.

Mr. Roberts is a chemist in the organic and fibrous materials division of the Bureau. As a project leader in the plastics section, he is in charge of research and development in the field of synthetic organic coatings, with particular emphasis on protecting coatings for military aircraft.

He has been a member of the Bureau staff since his discharge from the Navy in 1946. He is a member of the American Chemical Society and the American Society for Testing Materials. He is the author of several articles in his field.

Mr. Roberts lives with his wife and four children at 9711 Braddock Road, Silver Spring, Maryland.

LEW "FROGGY" BURDETTE JOINS BASEBALL IMMORTALS

To the list of baseball's immortals must be added the name of Lew Burdette.

It was Lew, or "Froggy" as his teammates at Richmond called him, who performed the incredible feat of licking the New York Yankees three times in the World Series. He whipped them 4 to 2 his first time out and then threw 1 to 0 and 5 to 0 shutouts.

His final victory, a 7-hitter, dethroned the defending champions who were playing in their own Yankee Stadium and gave the Milwaukee Braves their first World Series triumph.

When Lew retired the final Yankee with the bases loaded in the ninth, he became the sixth pitcher to post three World Series victories. The first of them was the immortal Christy Mathewson in 1905. The last hurler to notch three was Harry Brecheen for St. Louis in 1946.

Among those who had their eyes glued on their television screens when Burdette achieved that third win was Malcolm U. Pitt, '18, who coached the fidgety right hander in 1946 during his freshman (and only) year in Red and Blue livery.

Mac had been in the Yankee stadium the afternoon that Froggy fashioned the 4 to 2 triumph and was among millions of TV viewers who witnessed Burdette's two shut-outs.

Few college coaches have sent as many pitchers up to the Big Time as has Pitt: Newton (Bucky) Jacobs, '36, who pitched three no-hitters for the Spiders; Herb Hash, '36, a right handed fireballer, Lefty Porter Vaughan, '40, who labored briefly for the Philadelphia Athletics, and Lou Ciola, '49, another performer for the A's.

None of them quite made it. But Burdette, who was the mainstay of the Spider pitching staff in 1946 has taken rank among the baseball greats. He had the best earned run average in the National League last year, and this season, despite a pulled muscle in mid-year, finished with an excellent 17 and 9 record.

Coach Pitt considers Burdette "the smartest pitcher in the major leagues." Lew makes good use of his low-breaking pitches, the screwball and the sinker, and uses his fast ball (not his best pitch) sparingly.

Does he throw the spitball, a pitch that is outlawed in baseball?

"Absolutely not," says Pitt.

WHAT'S NEW?

Alumni are invited to send news of their activities to the Alumni Office for publication in the Alumni Bulletin.

TAYLOR PROMOTED BY CONTROLS CO.

Beverly D. Taylor, '34, has been named treasurer of the Robertshaw-Fulton Controls Company, whose executive offices are located at 911 East Broad St., Richmond.

Mr. Taylor had been controller for the Robertshaw-Fulton firm for 10 years prior to his promotion to treasurer. From 1945 to 1947, he was controller of Fulton Sylphon Company.

A native of Richmond, he is married to the former Miss Louise Hicks. They have one son, Beverly Douglas Taylor, Jr.

ALUMNI IN ACTION *

From the class rooms and tennis courts of Richmond College to the Professorship of Zoology at Harvard University has been the rise of CARROLL M. WILLIAMS, '37. Dr. Williams has taught at Harvard for eleven years.

While instructing undergraduates and graduates in physiology, he is specializing in physiology and biochemistry of the lower animals with stress on insects. To the layman his work, which is sponsored by Harvard and the United States Public Health Service, is to purify and crystallize a juvenile hormone extracted from silk worms. Dr. Williams personally raises these silk worms, which may provide man's fountain of youth.

Dr. Williams married Muriel Voter in 1941. Their four children are boys: John Leslie, fourteen; Wesley Conant, eleven; Peter Glenn, seven; Roger Lee, two.

This summer Dr. Williams will go to Europe for more research for the fifth time. His favorite countries other than the U. S. are Britain, Holland, and Denmark. He believes the socialization of medicine in Great Britain is proving satisfactory, and that this country will follow suit in years to come.

*This is the first of a series of sketches by Jimmy Robinson, dealing with University of Richmond alumni. The next will appear in the winter issue.

Dr. Williams, who is listed in Who's Who, is a Democrat. He reads "anything but novels," and is proud that the University of Richmond, like Harvard, is not touched by governmental interference.

A pipe and cigarette smoker, Dr. Williams doesn't think the tobacco-cancer link is an open and shut case.

Dr. and Mrs. Williams often play tennis together, thus keeping up his enjoyment of the game. He was a member of the 1937 team which lost but one match, that to the University of Virginia.

HONORARY SCHOLARSHIP FRATERNITY ESTABLISHED IN BUSINESS SCHOOL

The Alpha Society has been established on the campus as an honorary fraternity for leading scholars in the School of Business Administration. It has four purposes: to promote (1) a high standard of scholarship among full-time students in the School; (2) study and research in problems of business administration on the part of both students and alumni of the School; (3) the establishment of sound ideas and high ideals in the theory and practice of business administration; and (4) fellowship and cooperation among its members.

Members of the new Alpha Society are to be of several types. Aside from the 15 charter members there will be members elected in February, June, and August. Provision is also made for honorary members, faculty members, and graduate members. Officers are Professor Emanuel M. Last, marshal, Professor E. Elwood Ford, vice marshal, and Professor Thomas S. Berry, secretary and treasurer.

Student members are to be elected on the basis of their grades in required courses at the School over four semesters, although outstanding scholars may be elected at the end of their third semester.

Men or women elected to the Alpha Society will receive a certificate and a lapel button—a gold Alpha. There is a possibility that the new Business School fraternity will eventually ally itself with a national fraternity honoring scholarship in business administration.

In addition to the officers, the faculty members include Acting Dean Herman P. Thomas, under whose administration the new Society was founded. The men from the Class of 1957 include Thomas H. Collins, Howard L. Edwards, Jr., and Francis A. Howard, all of whom were eligible for election on a three-semester basis, and John McDonald Atkinson, Bryant W. Baird, Jr., Herman S. Blumenthal, Bob P. Hodges, Leo N. Lampros, Edward W. McPhillips, and Royal S. Vilas, who qualified on the basis of their quality credits over four semesters. Robert N. Harris of Richmond is the only member of the class of 1958 who has been elected to membership.

The Alpha Society expects to announce from time to time the election of alumni members, who may become members by virtue of their academic standing while they were undergraduates, or may be selected in recognition of their contribution to business scholarship or administration.

Westhampton News

Frieda Meredith Dietz, Pinch-hitter for Celeste Anderson O'Flaherty, '15 Norma Woodward Throckmorton, '16.

Because our classes have been so close through the years with several from '17 among us, we can hardly report without repeating. First: Our sympathy is extended to Norma Woodward Throckmorton, '15, her husband Charles, Jr., her son, Charles III, and daughter, Mary Lee Elliott, in the shock of the passing of the younger daughter, Nancy (Mrs. Herman Casey of Virginia Beach) on Sept. 23. Norma's son Charles and his wife, have a second son, born in Baltimore recently, Norma's fourth grandchild.

We have had the most social summer since graduation—although our winters are always so. Occasion for much of the celebration has been the return from Honolulu, Hawaii, of Margaret Monteiro, '15, who has been teaching in St. Andrews Episcopal School since she had to leave her fine missionary work of years in China. Celeste had a big picnic supper party on her spacious lawn with Louise ("Sup") Reams Hundley '15.

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO HOCKEY FANS

Dear Alumnae,

Now that fall is here (Br-r-r! and we mean it this year!) there's nothing better to warm you up than playing in a good hockey game or watching one. This season Westhampton College's hockey team is especially active. Westhampton is sponsoring no less than three big events! First, on November 1 and 2 we will be hostess to the Tidewater Tournament. College and club teams from the Virginia tidewater vicinity will participate and two teams will be selected from the players participating to represent our section in the Southeast Tournament.

Next on our big three calendar is the Welsh Touring Team—something no one should miss. This is one of the best international teams in the world and their match game with Tidewater on November 4 will really be something to see.

As a finale we have the BIG tournament—the Southeast. Teams of selected players from the southern coastal states will compete and from the participating players three Southeast teams will be selected to go to the National Tournament.

After all the big "extras" don't forget the varsity. In our first two games, we defeated St. Catherines 3-2, and the Little Colonels 4-2. There are six more scheduled games to come, including something new—a game with the Alumnae on November 9 when we are looking forward to seeing many of you.

You are invited to be with us at all our games and tournaments.

The Hockey Team

'16 (our first Westhampton M.A.) from Charlottesville; Frances Glassell Beale from Bowling Green; Florence Boston Decker (the latter two of the '17 class), Louise Goepfarth Schaaf, '15, Mary Shine Brown, '15, Norma Woodward Throckmorton, and Frieda Meredith Dietz, both '16, among the many guests, some from younger classes.

In honor of Margaret, Frieda had an old fashioned spend-the-day with Kathleen Bland Cottle, '16, of West Point, Irene Stith Phillips, '15, of Tappahannock, "Sup" Reams Hundley, Celeste, Norma, Florence, and Frances, with Norma's and Frances' sisters, Bessie Woodward Graham and Marion Walker Glassell Beattie. This was in early July when Mary Shine Brown was in the hospital. We are happy to say Mary looks fine, is in circulation again, and lives at 4202 Patterson Ave.

At the party, "Sup" reported that she had attended a dinner party in Charlottesville with Constance Gay Morenus, '15, who has a position with the recreation division of the Government in Washington.

There was a beach party at Buckroe when Norma, Frances and friends had a cottage next to Celeste and Mayme Frayser Stone, with Frieda as guest.

A few of us had dinner with Margaret at Norma's one evening to hear about Hawaii. Margaret is hard to snare as she is always flying around the country speaking and being entertained by friends, but she is parking now and may be contacted at her cousin's, Mrs. R. F. Coleman, 2416 Grove Ave., phone 84-3898. She will be in-and-out of Richmond until Christmas.

The alumnae who made the memorable trek to Europe in 1944: "Sup," Celeste, Norma, Frances, Russell Elliott Ewing (a much later graduate), with various sisters and cousins and friends in Frieda's group, gave a bridal dinner party on Sept. 18 for one of the group, Stella Martin. At this were enjoyed Celeste's home and cookery and Norma's and her sister Bessie's talents in dressing an elaborate bridal party in silks and satins, the faces of the paper dolls being photographs of the members of the travel group.

Ethel L. Smither, '15, returned in mid-July from a wonderful North-West trip including much of Canada, after a session of teaching at the University of Nevada.

The sympathy of the classes is extended to Louise Goepfarth Schaaf in the passing of her sister, Mrs. Christian Schaaf.

1919 Secretary
MRS. WEBSTER CARPENTER
(Juliette Brown)

1001 Gates Avenue, Norfolk, Va.

Another summer has gone, and if mine is indicative, I know you have had busy ones too. We have just moved back to town from our house at Virginia Beach, where we enjoyed having our friends visit us over the weekends during the summer. Webster and I both commuted daily except Sundays. We had a nice visit in June from Pamela, George, "The six", (and the maid.)

I have on my desk before me notes from Helen Hundley, Elizabeth Gaines, Adelaide Cowherd, Margaret Decker, Margaret McKillop, and Mildred McDanel. It was good to hear from each one. Some helped with our letters to you in the spring, and some just wrote nice notes to say that they were responding. Margaret McKillop sounded quite busy with her community and church.

I think often of getting in my car and "cruising" around the state paying some "pop" calls on some of you. May do it some day, if the time presents itself.

We heard about Elizabeth Tompkins' and Virginia Snead's trip abroad, and it was so nice to have a card from Virginia from Scotland. Please, you two, get together and collaborate on a sketch of your trip for the next Bulletin.

I've just had some exciting news. Learned last week that I'm to have a 25 day tour of Europe—an AAA Educational Tour. Will fly from New York on October 4th. Have just been vaccinated, passport application is in and the wardrobe is being assembled. Tell you about it later!

Old Guardesses Honor Dean Keller

Celeste Anderson O'Flaherty was the first student of Westhampton College to meet and welcome the new Dean May Lansfield Keller in the autumn of 1914. Celeste was a Senior. In her Class of 1915, the classes of 1916 and 1917, there were girls who were with Dean Keller in spirit and action then, and through the years since have remained her friends. Florence Boston Decker, '17, realized that this group wanted to make September 28 "special" in celebration of Dean Keller's eightieth birthday and, as the unsuspecting honoree wanted to attend the Country Club luncheon of the A.A.U.W., permission was granted the "Old Guard" (who think they should be called "Guardesses" with even an "o" substituted for the "uar") to have a special table to which a very special birthday cake with candles was brought (and luckily the cake went around the some sixty women present). The A.A.U.W. Richmond president, Miss Mabel Montgomery toasted Dean Keller most charmingly, speaking of her outstanding contributions to education in Richmond, Virginia, and our country. The organization decked Dean Keller with an orchid.

At the birthday table were Mary Clay Camp and Betsy Camp Smith from Franklin, Va.; Louise Reams Hundley from Charlottesville; Kathleen Bland Cottle from West Point; Mary Shine Brown, Anne Ruth Harris, Frieda Meredith Dietz, Pauline Turnbull and of course, the instigators, Celeste and Florence. But for other commitments, there might have been present Margaret Monteiro of Honolulu, Frances Glassell Beale of Bowling Green, Norma Woodward Throckmorton and Elizabeth Tompkins.

1921 Secretary
Mrs. E. L. DuPuy (Catherine Little)
703 Beechnut Lane, Martinsville, Va.

Leonora Dorsey has once more furnished the most important news for the class of '21. This time instead of a new position of importance, however, it is a new name for Leonora! On the tenth of August, at Hopewell, Virginia, Leonora was married to Mr. Daniel Jackson Kilby. They are living at 1222 Blue Ridge Avenue in Culpeper, Virginia, and our best wishes go to them both.

My younger daughter, Suzanne, entered Westhampton this fall and is most excited about everything there.

1922 Secretary
Mrs. Leonard F. Hatz (Louise Shipman)
Box 228, West Point, Va.

Where are we now? Thirty-two of us live in Virginia—seventeen in Richmond. The Washington area has seven and the Carolinas have six. There are two each in Georgia, Illinois, and Kentucky and one each in Alabama, Florida, Pennsylvania, and California. Most of us are not so far apart.

Margaret White Butterworth lives in Fairmont, N. C. Her oldest son, Dr. Thos. R. Butterworth, Jr., took his Pre-Med. at U. of R., went to Medical College and interned two years at Johnston-Willis and is now serving in the Army, stationed in Detroit, Mich. He is married and has a little daughter about a year old. The other son, Dick, will be a senior this year at U. of R.—a Pre-Dental student. Her oldest daughter will be a junior at Mary Washington this year where she is a sociology and elementary education major. She visited a classmate in Puerto Rico last summer.

Martha, her youngest daughter, will be in the eighth grade and had a wonderful time at camp last summer. Tragedy struck in Margaret's home three years ago—Dick and Martha had polio. Dick's was non-paralytic but Martha's right side was paralyzed. Last May she had a "rugged" operation. Now she rides horseback, swims, hikes, passed canoeing test, etc., and Margaret is so very thankful. We rejoice with her. She says if any of you come to Myrtle Beach or any of the S. C. beaches, please drop her a card and come to see her or let her come to see you.

Narcissa Daniel Hargroves and Dr. V. Carney Hargroves have just celebrated their 25th anniversary with the Second Baptist Church of Germantown, Pa. They have three daughters and one granddaughter. One daughter graduated from Vassar last June and plans to be married to a June Princeton graduate in September. Another daughter was a freshman at Pembroke College (Brown University) last year. "Sissy's" husband was elected to Phi Beta Kappa last spring and they were in Richmond in April so she could not return for our reunion. Her address is 48 E. Upsal St., Philadelphia 19, Pa.

Anna Riddick is an interior decorator in Raleigh, N. C. She lives at 1028 Cowper Drive. Anna, who kept '22 on the map in track, says of life—"a scoreless tie—no hits, no runs, no errors."

Stella Hubbard's husband died in 1936. She has been teaching in Maury High School in Norfolk since 1939 and is now head of the English Department there. She is active in her church and is a member of the Museum of Arts and Sciences, the Poetry Society of Virginia, the English-Speaking Union of Norfolk, the A.P.V.A., a literary society and the country club. She has traveled in Europe and in California and recently has had an occasional trip to New York. Her son graduated from Yale last June majoring in archi-

They have no children so she and "Tommy" live alone in an eight room house and tend a four acre lawn and small vegetable garden. Lucile Ledman Kersey could not come to the reunion because she was making her second trip to Havana. Cuba with a group of her Spanish students. She did graduate work at the University of Havana in 1952. Her husband was a minister and since his death both of her children have gone into religious work. Her son graduated from U. of R. in 1956 and is now married and studying for the ministry at Wake Forest Seminary. Her daughter graduated at Westhampton and did post-graduate work in religious education and is now director of religious education in N. C. Lucile lives at 2602 Monument Ave., Richmond.

Claudia Patrick is buyer for Miller & Rhoads' Virginia Room. "Pat" says she is tied down except for frequent trips to New York. She was present for one day of the reunion before leaving for New York.

Julia Roop Adams taught school for five years and then married a farmer and livestock breeder and went to live on a farm which her husband inherited in 1928. She has had a busy, happy life there, improving her home and grounds and bringing up her two sons who are both V.P.I. graduates. She enjoys visiting friends and entertaining friends at her home. I know you would enjoy a visit to Mrs. Richard P. Adams' home, Upper Kentland Farm, Whitehorne, Montgomery Co., Va.

Miss Lough loves to get your letters promptly. She writes that they are misplaced or delayed when you send them to the University so be sure to use the following address—2307 Monument Ave., Richmond.

I'll give you news of ten or more in the next issue so don't miss it.

1923 Secretary
MRS. BARTEE CORPREW (Dorothy Sadler)
7100 Horsepen Road, Richmond, Va.

First there is news of sons and daughters graduating from and attending the University.

Lee Epes Field, daughter of Virginia Epes Field, graduated in June with a B.S.; Carolyn Wood, daughter of Gladys Nuckols Wood, with a B.A.; and Thomas J. Headlee, Jr., son of Ethney Selden Headlee, with a B.A. He is now teaching at John Marshall.

Entering this fall are Louise Fristoe Arnold's daughter, Robbie; and Camilla Wimbish Lacy's younger son, Louis. The latter graduated from Halifax High School in June. Robert Perrin, son of Kathleen Prentiss Perrin, is already attending Richmond College.

Jim Wamsley is now living in Richmond with his family and is with the Associated Press. He is Evelyn Sanford Wamsley's son.

We are grieved to hear of the passing of Milton Copenhaver in Bristol, Virginia. He was the husband of Margaret Terpstra Copenhaver.

We were also grieved last January by the death of Thomas J. Loving, husband of Virginia Kent Loving. This month, Virginia is entering Stetson University in Deland, Florida, to work on an M. A. in physics. She had a pleasant trip down there to investigate the school.

While Virginia Gay, '19, was visiting Kathleen Prentiss Perrin in Philadelphia, they went to New York and lunched with Sallie Davis.

Another classmate did graduate work this summer. Elmira Ruffin Bowen received a fellowship from the General Electric Company to do work in chemistry and physics, both in theory and as related to industry. She worked at Union College in Schenectady, New York and in the Research Engineering Laboratories of General Electric, and their groups were even admitted to the ones doing atomic research. She is now teaching Chemistry and Physics at Varina High School, but she managed a flight to Chicago to see her four grandchildren (one for the first time) before school opened.

Now, please let us have news of the rest of you. A card to Ethney Selden (Mrs. Thomas J.) Headlee at 4206 Seminary Ave., Richmond 27, Virginia, or to Dorothy Sadler (Mrs. B. E.) Corprew, will get it in the Bulletin.

1925 Secretary
MRS. R. E. WALSH (Martha Lipscomb)
1819 Chesterfield Ave., Falls Church, Va.

A nice newsy letter from Bessie Anderson Knecht tells of the "doings" of her family. She and Jack took a vacation last winter driving to Florida, then around the Gulf, stopping at various places on their way to New Orleans. As they headed back north, they stopped at Natchez, which they especially enjoyed. Their daughter, Nancy, who was graduated last year from the University of Colorado, has been working with a travel agency, and this winter will take a Caribbean cruise. Mary, their other daughter, graduates this year from the University of Michigan.

"Buck" Ashton was in the Richmond Memorial Hospital in August for an operation. She is back at work now and feeling pretty well. She strongly recommends the Richmond Memorial for any one who has to be in the hospital.

Cathryn Henna and her sister, Jeanette, '22, took a trip through the Smokies this summer. They also visited Asheville and toured through southwest Virginia, where they attended the Abingdon Festival and the Barter Theater.

As you will notice, my address has been changed. I bought a house out near my school (McLean High School). It is brick ramblor on a fairly large lot in a typical suburban community, and I'm thoroughly enjoying having my own home again. Since I just moved August 31, at this writing (September 19), I'm still quite busy getting settled.

Please send me news of yourself and family, as I know everyone is interested in what you are doing!

1926 Secretary
MRS. CLARK MOORE BROWN
(Margaret Lazenby)
Box 14, Richlands, Va.

Harriet and Ed Willingham leave on Christmas Day for a four month tour of Baptist mission stations in Africa. I hope we will have a full report on their trip in a Bulletin in the near future.

Allene and Claude Richmond spent their vacation in Florida.

Frances Bell and Mary Woodward stopped in to see Lila Crenshaw when they were in Richmond recently. Frances entered her son in Hampden-Sydney.

Marian Marsh Sale's son entered the University of Richmond this fall. Marian is a member of the tearoom committee at Westhampton.

Louise Mattern Coleman spent the summer working at Episcopal Book Store.

All of you will be interested in hearing news of Miss Lough. She recently went to the hospital but expected to stay only a short time. She will be at 2307 Monument Avenue, and would love to hear from you.

I had a wonderful visit with Alice Taylor in Petersburg this summer. We stayed so busy "partying" that we didn't even go to Richmond.

I would certainly like to have news of more of you. Drop me a card anytime you hear of anything interesting.

1929 Secretary
MISS HELEN C. MOON

Congratulations to another '29 grandmother! Genie Riddick Steck's daughter, Anna Kirwan, had a little girl last May—Margaret Elliott Carey. "A darling," says Genie.

1930 Secretary
MRS. WM. B. SHINNICK (Virginia Prince)
2 Clarke Road, Richmond 26, Va.

We are all proud of Dottie Abbott Wood, who is president of the Richmond Chapter of the Westhampton Alumnae. She has started off the year with a tea for the new Richmond students and a covered dish supper for Richmond alumnae.

Helen Harwood Parr's daughter, Mary Catherine, became Mrs. Jenkins at a very sweet wedding at River Road Baptist Church in August.

I enjoyed seeing Dorothy Epperly Goodman in June when her second daughter, Dottie, graduated from Westhampton College. Dottie is now in Richmond teaching the first grade at Thomas Dale School. Her first daughter, Linda, is now Mrs. Denby Lewis and also lives in Richmond and teaches at Summer Hill School. You remember, Linda is our baby cup winner. The third daughter Nancy is a fourth grader in Martinsville.

1931 Secretary
MISS MARGARET LEAKE
408 N. Meadow St., Richmond, Va.

Hope you all had a grand summer. If you have any interesting news, let me have it for the next Bulletin.

Elizabeth Gill Minor and family have been remodeling a house at Newtown and moved in just in time for her daughter Pat's wedding in July. Her daughter Betsy is following in her mother's dramatic footsteps and this summer was seen in a Shakespeare production in Richmond's lovely new amphitheatre at Dogwood Dell (Byrd Park). Betsy will also be a princess in the Tobacco Festival this fall.

1932 Secretary
MRS. CHARLES W. SCARBOROUGH
(Zephia Campbell)
5109 Sylvan Road, Richmond 25, Va.

Since it's "back to school" time again this will bring you up to date on which of our classmates are in the important field of teaching.

Jane Little Gray is beginning her first year in the Richmond Public Schools, joining Phyllis Perkinson, Helen Redford, Anne Kennon Williams and Louise Sanford. Those who are in other schools in the city are Muriel Jones, Mary Ryland Babcock and Valerie LeMasurier Jones.

Mary Templeman Marshall planned to begin teaching this fall, joining Bertie Flippo, Bettie Burns Gaylor and Mary Billings in the Washington area. Catherine Fosskett McCloud and Louise Noffsinger Ballou are in the Norfolk system. Teaching in other parts of the state are Jessie Miller Jones Turner, Evelyn Zehmer and Nelle Johnson. Out of state teachers are Buena Perkins Myers, Betty Newcome and Mary Lucile Saunders. Virginia Jones Pharr is principal of the elementary school in Denbigh.

If there are others in the profession let us hear from you.

Ruth Cole Weber sent me a nice newsy letter about her family. She had hoped to get to the reunion but the death of Matt's mother changed her plans. The family had a wonderful fishing trip in the Adirondacks this summer.

Ruth Coen Powell won a local women's golf tournament recently. Ruth plays for the Hermitage Country Club. She is not teaching at Albert Hill again this year. She went to work last year on a day's notice "just to help out" and taught the whole year.

There was a story with a picture in the September 11 News Leader about Eleanor Ewell. She has been made the new executive secretary of the Traveler's Aid Society of Virginia.

Helen and Jim Deck moved into their beautiful new home on River Road August 15. Helen said she expected to spend the winter literally on River Road since all the children are going to school in town this year.

You silent partners, why not send me some news about yourself?

As next year is our big reunion—25th—you'll be hearing from your Richmond classmates as they plan the festivities. We are counting on your presence to make it a successful event. Plan, now, to attend!

Several members of our class have made exciting trips during the summer.

Elizabeth Goodwin Henderson and family visited Canada. They especially enjoyed traveling through Montreal, Ottawa, and to Niagara Falls.

Erma Gay Cecil flew via strato-cruiser to Oregon where she spent some time with her sister, Audrey. During her twenty-three days in the West, Erma went to Washington, where she saw Mt. Rainier, Yosemite Park, and San Francisco. If you'd like to hear all about bears, sagebrush, cypress, and giant redwoods, just ask her!

While traveling with friends through New England, Frances Gee toured Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Massachusetts. Congratulations are due Frances on her promotion in the State Department of Education. She is now a Teacher Education Analyst.

Virginia McIntosh Puckett, with her husband and daughters, motored up to Canada. They saw Chicago, Lake Michigan, and Niagara Falls.

Here's a wonderful way to spend a vacation! Grace Rowland Wells and family glided by cabin cruiser down the inland waterways, passing through Dismal Swamp. Grace is at present Curator of Costumes for the Valentine Museum. Her daughter, Linda Wyatt, now 18, has entered William and Mary as a freshman. Son, Taylor, 14, is in his first year of High School.

Many of us have visited Jamestown, including Julia Donohue Martin, Virginia Watkins Ellensburg, and Frances Gee. My family and I greatly enjoyed the Exposition, and afterwards, the "Founders."

It was quite a surprise to learn that Helen Hulcher and her mother, after staying at Miami Beach, Florida, during the summer months, had decided to live there. Helen is teaching at a Miami High School. Your friends and former pupils will certainly miss you, Helen.

During vacation time I was delighted to receive a telephone call from Polly Cochran Knobloch. She and her son were in Richmond briefly after attending a conference in North Carolina. Polly is doing State Welfare work in the western part of Virginia.

Margaret Owens Young tells us that her 18 year old son has just entered the University of Virginia. During his absence she is kept very busy serving as President of the Sunshine Circle of the Crippled Children's Hospital.

Katherine Sargeant Newby has moved to Washington State. Her husband is with the Department of Ophthalmology there.

ginia Sanford Brian writes that her husband is being transferred by the Esso Standard Oil Company back to the United States. Her two sons, Dan, 12, and Jim, 9½, have completed the seventh and fourth grades at Ruston Academy, Havana, Cuba. She reports that the four of them made a 1500 mile trip down the island (of Cuba). En route, they witnessed a gay carnival in Sancti Spiritus, with its paper decorations, costumed people, and noise. In Santiago they saw old Morro Castle. They went sailing with friends in Cienfuegos Bay, and also visited San Juan Hill where Teddy Roosevelt led his Rough Riders in 1898. Their new address is as yet unknown.

Sympathy is extended to Evelyn Steussy Fishburne, who lost her husband last May.

Be sure to keep me informed, girls. We are all eager to hear your news.

Margaret Bowers spent seven weeks this summer in Creole, Louisiana doing case work with families left homeless by Hurricane Audrey. Margaret writes that this was her first experience with a large disaster and quite an initiation it was: Experienced disaster workers told her that anyone connected with Audrey would have the equivalent of the experience with three large disasters. Monny is moving October 12th to 149 Ormond Avenue, Sharon, Pennsylvania.

Virginia Kirk Weeden is teaching school this winter. She has the third grade in a new school 10 miles from Syracuse. She enjoyed a wonderful trip this past Easter when she visited friends on the island of Aruba in the Caribbean.

Herbert and Sue Chermiside made a camping trip to the wilds of Canada. Boo and Sidney Page and children also visited Canada, stopping off in Buffalo to view Niagara Falls.

MRS. BERT BURCHILL

Many of you missed our news in the last Bulletin. The only item I had to report at that time was the death of Lilyan Ernestine Akers which was printed in the back section of the Bulletin. We shall miss her very much.

We are all glad to know that Jean Bobbitt Grubbs' son, George Ronald Grubbs, Jr., is now at home recovering from a very serious injury he received when he was accidentally shot some weeks ago. Perhaps many of you saw his picture in the Richmond News Leader when he was released from the hospital.

I had a nice talk with Allie Martin Holbleib recently. Both Allie and Jean teach at Henry Clay High School in Ashland and see each other frequently.

Anne Walker enjoyed seeing Olive Messer Lewis and family this summer at the Jamestown Exposition.

1941 Secretary
MRS. R. P. STONE (Mayme O'Flaherty)
3605 Moss Side Avenue, Richmond, Va.

Summertime has gone, and I, for one, am sorry to see the easy living give way to the rush and organization of fall activity. Alease Hardaway Prince and I are going to try to keep you up with the class news, and we will start our letter with her.

"This was Margaret Brittingham Curtice's summer to come East, and so many of us had the pleasure of seeing her. She and Jack visited Anna Marie Rue Stringfellow and husband at their cottage at Sandbridge Beach. Ray and Lib Henry Belcher were guests at the same time. On August 23rd, while Margaret was in Richmond, Its Holden Slikek had a coffee hour in her honor. Jean Neasmith Dickinson, Betsy Woodson Weaver, Antoinette Wirth Whittet, Mayme and I attended that. We had a wonderful time laughing, eating and reminiscing. Margaret hoped to meet Sara-jane Payne Arkedis in Chicago when she had a layover between trains there.

Sarajane and George and their two children spent a week at Virginia Beach in late June. David and I vacationed with them and were charmed by the entire family. Georgie and Janie are both of school age, and Georgie plays on a Little League Baseball team.

Frazier Drumwright Catron was in town in early September and visited Its.

Betsy Weaver, who wrote up Chesterfield County for the Jamestown Festival Year, is now writing a series of four articles about old Chesterfield homes for the Richmond Times Dispatch.

We have just heard that Betty Keesee Rhodes' mother died last winter, and we wish to extend sympathy to Betty."

To the above, I would like to add that Margaret said her husband would be coach for the West in the East-West game on New Year's Day in California, and we can watch for him on TV. She is also working on her degree in social work and has high praise for her Westhampton training.

We would like to say Happy Birthday to the children of Martha Beam DeVos and Mary Owen Bass. Our announcements are running somewhat behind!

Suitable books were placed in the library at Martinsville at Christmas in memory of Kitty Spencer Philpott's daughter, our class baby.

Thanksgiving I sat with Carolyn Gary Hugo and her daughter to see the great Richmond-William and Mary game, and she told me of Larry's work on TV. She and Kitty Crawford Lindsay live relatively close to each other and visit often. That night we had the treat of having Annabel Lumpkin Hessel and her husband, Red, come down and have Thanksgiving dinner with us. They have a lovely home in Alexandria, and Red is busy at the Pentagon.

Phyllis Coghill Brown is second Vice-President of the Council of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and active in the work there. Five years ago she started as a "docent," giving guided tours to school children. She says it is very interesting, and she runs into many of the children of friends.

Allene Jones Patteson is stationed with her husband in California and just had her fifth child this summer.

We wish to express our sympathy to Marion Rawls Waymack, whose mother died some time ago, and also to Kitty Crawford Lindsay, whose mother died very suddenly this summer.

Helen Hill, Henrietta Sadler Ellwanger, Kitty and I were able to get together when Kitty was here. Kitty and Howard now have an office in Huntington and are writing a series of radio dramas for the Canadian Broadcasting Company. Until recently they were doing Studio One and are currently free lancing. As always in the theatre and TV, there are many things in the offing, and we shall watch their career with interest. Miss Carolyn Lutz and Kitty drove to Stratford, Connecticut for the Shakespeare Festival on Labor Day weekend.

Helen Hill is a visiting teacher for the Richmond Public Schools, and last year studied guidance and administration at George Washington University on a study furlough. In May she was initiated into Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary sorority for women educators. Helen will attend the International Association of Pupil Personnel Workers in Houston in October. Added to all this, she is organist at St. Matthews Episcopal Church.

Cecile Gaddis Smith sent an interesting Christmas letter about their new baby, Nancy Carol, born April 13. Cecil has been busy completing his doctoral dissertation, which has just been accepted by his committee at the University of California. He is now devoting much of his time to research concerned with marketing problems of Florida's 30 million dollar flower and nursery industry. Cecile has devoted much of her time and energy to the Garden Club, AAUW, and Women of the Church.

I talked with Helen Morrissey Wren, and she told me Louise Morrissey Moyer and family were here for a weekend this year, and that Margaret Forrer Wren and family were here briefly at Easter. Woody is busy in psychiatric work. Their address is 833 Taylor Drive, Falcroft, Pennsylvania, and I always enjoy hearing about the children on the Christmas card she sends me.

Teeny Evans Hardin and Bristow are in Roanoke, where he has an administrative job in the public schools.

My mother visited Emily Hensley Wieck in Martinsville, and they went over to Fieldale to see Kira Nicholsky Curwen and her family. She claims not to do anything of interest, but they had just had a wonderful vacation to Florida.

I have seen Jean and Enders Dickinson regularly at the Lewis Ginter Community House pool, where we spent most of our time this summer. Jean was a star member of the Old Ladies swimming class, consisting of ladies 90 and married! They had quite a time, and Jean won her swimmer's badge. The instructor was terrific, and our children passed all sorts of tests too. Mildred Masengill was also a member of this class. What athletes! They even had a relay on Labor Day.

In February, I had a nice visit with Ann Phillips Bonifant at their lovely home at Old Church, and I see Henrietta, Its and Toni often. The Whittets have just returned from a trip to St. Louis and also from New York, where they met their children returning from a wonderful cruise with their grandparents.

Among my piano pupils are the children of the Slikeks, Whittets and Massies, and it is interesting to know and work with them. I have also enjoyed being on the board of the Richmond Symphony and hope all of you in Richmond and close by will come out and support this orchestra which is a dream come true for our city.

The Bulletin deadlines are December 10th, March 15th and May 15th. Will you write Alease or me by then, and please excuse any news that is incorrect, inaccurate or uninteresting.

I learned last night we had only one day if the class of '43 was to be heard from (thanks to Leslie Booker!). So with very little news but a big desire to keep in touch, I've taken up my seldom used pen.

Pepper, Puff, Max and I had a delightful evening together at the Richmond Club's first meeting—a covered dish dinner. Sorry more of you couldn't be with us. This group has a very satisfactory but brief club year. To you Richmonders, let's try to get together at the spring meeting. The group needs your support. Do send your $1.00 dues to Pepper (the new treasurer). It'll be fun being together again!

Enough of my rah-rah for the Richmond Club. My memory fails me, so if I repeat (or misquote or misspell) please bear with me.

Vacations

Some of you really had fabulous trips this summer. Cozy and Cliff en route to Nova Scotia had a wonderful get-together with Fran and Bob Bell. Puff, Dick and family really hit the road—traveled 9,500 miles, seeing just about everything—National Parks, camping out and as Puff says "Really acted like tourists." Dick had a coaching assignment with a Canadian professional team. They left in June and returned Labor Day. Pepper drove self and younguns to Louisville for a family visit. The boys and Pepper and Bob later toured Florida for two glorious weeks—hampered only by what could have been quite a serious accident but fortunately resulted in only minor (?) injury. Pepper walked into and shattered a plate glass door (at 10:00 A.M.), splitting a knee, necessitating fourteen stitches. I could visualize a whole vacation completely ruined but, gal that she is, they went dancing the following evening! Virginia Delp Ogg said they had the usual summer at their place on the Potomac—really sounds like living to me!

Announcements

Pudge has a new baby boy—Russell Franklin Starke, II, who arrived March 20, 1957. Even though late, Pudge, our heartiest congrats. Speaking of babies—and it's my favorite subject since Parr arrived 7 months ago—I could have easily taken up this space and more telling you about our boy, but I have truly restrained myself. I have recently given up Ma Bell (C&P Telephone Co.) after being on leave for a year for a full-time job as Ma Claytor. We're delighted with the change.

Work

Max is back in full swing at the library and enjoys the contact with many Westhamptonites who still find time to read. I, for one, seem to limit my reading to Baby Talk, Baby Care and of course, Dr. Spock. Evelyn Allen Krause has resumed teaching duties with classes in English Grammar, Public Speaking and American Lit at Manchester High School. Just chatted with Virginia Ogg and besides the usual load of church work and P.T.A., she's helping Miss Fry at dancing school one half day per week. Puff says she is really back to the books, having to teach a new science course this semester. You know, you gals, are a real inspiration!

Play

Cozy has a source of energy that I need these days. She's planning swimming lessons at the "Y" and also morning tennis games while the boys are in school. Had a delightful surprise visit this summer with Max Rogers and Dolly Garwood. Those two had enjoyed an evening out and stopped in to see that much talked about Little One. Dolly had about a month's stay with her family in Hopewell—and was later joined by Dave for a month of traveling, visiting, and then back to Larson Air Force Base in Washington. Parr and I strolled by to see Sweetie Mac-Sweeney recently and, as might be expected, there was quite a gathering in front of the house—all ages—not all Sweeties'. A very fine looking man in cadet uniform approached and to my amazement it was Sweetie's 15 year old Pat.

Things to Come

Speaking of 15—we soon will be! As much as it reminds us of our age, we may as well relax and enjoy it. Most of us have enjoyed vacation time but do keep in mind our reunion when you start making plans for '58. Our 10th was great fun—but let's make our 15th bigger and better. We'll be in touch later with details.

Since I've stepped into this assignment with little know-how, rather than attempt at this time to coordinate out of town news through one of you out of towners, please send any news directly to me. We all love to know what each is doing and if you're like me, you seldom find time for personal notes, so let's keep in touch the easy way.

P. S. I've never written a letter without a P. S. This has been overloaded with "I." You can help eliminate the problem in the winter issue.

1944 Secretary

MRS. R. M. KEEVER (Gene Shephard)
215 Verne Avenue, Portsmouth, Va.

Here goes with my first attempt at gathering and reporting the doin's of the '44's.

Baby news first:

Fran (Kennard) and Bob Wolf's third daughter, Katharine Davis, was born in Norfolk, May 5th . . . their other girls are Barbara (9), and Patricia, (7). It'll be Washington, D. C. for the Wolfs this fall as they expect to be leaving Norfolk after 2½ years (though Bob has been home about 5 months of that time).

Lois (Kirkwood) and Walter North had their first child, a girl, Elizabeth Kirkwood, April 22nd. They're still in Galesburg, Illinois where Dr. North is a professor at Knox College. They've been in their new house . . . a split level . . . since February. Lois' new address is 1648 Maple Ave., Galesburg, Ill. The three Norths visited their parents in Norfolk this summer for a month.

Martha Ann (Mercer) and Bill Oast's third baby, second son, Cabell Mercer, arrived March 31st. Marty left us after 2 years, but you all remember her I'm sure. She and Bill and young Bill, (9), and Marty, (6), and Baby spent a happy summer enjoying their new home on the water here in Portsmouth.

On June 29th Mimi (Hill) and Doug Boynton welcomed their second girl, Melissa Ashfield. The other little Boyntons are Bruce, (9), Alan, (3), and Hannah, (1). Mimi and Doug are busy planning a new house for their enlarged family.

Our Baby Cup Baby, Barbara (who is 12 and starting to Junior High) has a brand new brother, David Burcher, who arrived August 15th. Ann writes from Roanoke that to her knowledge the Stanburys are the only '44 family to boast 5 children (correct us if we're wrong). Besides the new baby and Barbara they are Winn, (10), Susan, (8) and Beth, (2).

Lois (Hester) Blackburn writes from Waynesboro that she has no '44 news except keeping busy herself with two children and a new house and yard. She's Program Chairman for the Junior Woman's Club and President of the Garden Club.

From Dot Hill comes news of Molly Warner who toured Europe this summer with Norma Sanders, Molly is teaching in England, her mother visited her last spring, and her sister plans to go over this fall.

Gloria (Tyler) Robertson, husband, Clayton, and little girl, Robin, (3), have enjoyed this summer here on the water with their boat.

DeeDee (Howe) and Bill Kirk visited here this summer with their 3 children.

Rita (Muldowney) Copley writes all the way from California of her family's visit East this summer, visiting in Richmond with her mother and then going to Buffalo to her husband's family. Her three California children did get indoctrinated in Virginia history because they visited Jamestown and Williamsburg. Rita's youngest enters kindergarten this fall so she plans to take Golf Lessons . . . Lucky Girl.

Ruth Cotten turned this job over to me 'til reunion. Many thanks and congratulations go to Ruth for a job well done as Secretary these past years.

As for the Keevers, we've had quite a summer. We spent a week at Massanetta Springs, Virginia in June . . . we being my husband and two boys and I (my mother kept our one year old, Susie). My husband took a course there taught by our own Betsy Rice, who is with the Presbyterian Board in Richmond. She had quite a busy summer ahead of her, traveling and teaching . . . Montreat, N. C. was on her list. We came home to remodeling our house which started in July with walls coming down and only the hope of being straight by Christmas. My boys, Mac, (5½), and Jeff, (4), started to kindergarten this week so I'm glad I have outside projects like this to keep me occupied now that I only have our princess (14 months) at home.

Many thanks to all of you who helped me out with this first letter. All of you get busy now and drop me a line . . . 'cause this can't be written without you.

1945 Secretary

MRS. J. B. JACKSON, JR. (Ann Seay)
7711 Sweet Briar Road, Richmond 26, Va.

From the scarcity of vacation correspondence it seems that you all have had a quiet summer. If that is contrary to fact it is still not too late to inform me.

It's a baby boy for Lib Weaver Martin and Les, namely, Robert Samuel Weaver Martin, who was born on July 4th!

Gladys Kaufman Lowden and Marv Ellen Tucker Lowry for notes.

Gladys will have all three children in school this fall and will be able to pursue her volunteer hospital work more easily. The Lowdens spent two weeks at the New Jersey shore and came to Virginia in August via the Skyline Drive.

Mary Ellen was quite excited about having bought a home at 1905 Wood Lane in Camden, South Carolina and was finding packing something of a chore with little "Stew" around as Mother's chief helper!

Nancy and Linton and their three boys are now established at Fort Benning, where Linton is in Infantry School, but in December they'll be on the move again, for Linton has orders for Germany. Nancy said their quarters were nice and the summer no hotter in Georgia than in Richmond or Baltimore.

E. P. Brooks Blackwell and Roy are now stationed in Washington State after an eighteen months' tour of duty at Fort Lee.

Connie Sutton enjoyed an extended vacation at Lake Boon, Massachusetts and Wanda Pace and her family were at Southampton, Long Island for three weeks. She and Warren had been to Sea Island earlier in the summer.

A high spot in my summer was having Ann Clark Howe and Chuck visit us for an evening during their visit to Ann's parents, and seeing their three cute children. J. B. and I spent a short vacation at Nag's Head, N. C., which we loved for its uncommercialized beauty, and enjoyed taking the children to Virginia Beach for their first real stay at the seashore.

Will all girls whose maiden names began with the letters A through J please send me a note within the next two months? The others will have their big chance later!

1946 Secretary
MISS JEANNE YEAMANS
3304 Stuart Avenue, Richmond, Virginia

It would be nice to have news from some of you who have remained silent for so long. Just a postal card will do fine. I heard from two group leaders this summer who said they hadn't had any word from their people in ages, I'm sorry to say. Now, if you haven't written to your leader recently, we're talking to you.

Mary Frances Bethel Wood had this to say in her letter—"We have spent a quiet summer. Buddy had the flu and was home from work for two weeks, but is fine now. Otherwise, we've been well. Have been to Jamestown several times, and thoroughly enjoyed it. We take our vacation in September and hope to get to Richmond for a few days."

Ding Shotwell wrote that she and Ralph had a fine time at the American Baptist Convention in Philadelphia. She saw Ruth Smith Tschan, who had a leading role in the historical pageant which was given for the 10,000 delegates, and her husband, Don, and the children. Later in the summer she and Ralph went to Keuka College in New York where Ralph was the Vesper Speaker and Chaplain for 200 girls, ranging in age from 12 to 16. Ding taught a class in "Beauty" and also helped the girls make slippers for mission hospitals.

Frances Carter Bleight Elliott and Dick spent a week at the Greenbrier on a convention and they both played some golf, which is their favorite pastime. They were also in Richmond for a week so the children's grandparents could see them.

I would guess that our most outstanding news is about Ellen Hodges Proxmire whose husband, Bill, as I am sure you all know, was elected Senator by the State of Wisconsin to complete the late Senator McCarthy's term. I'm sure none of us will ever know how much time and toil went into that successful campaign but the efforts really paid off. I had hoped to be able to get in touch with Ellen while she and Bill were in Washington and get first hand information about how it feels to be the wife of a United States Senator but they were so busy that it was impossible. As you all probably remember, Ellen was affiliated with the Wisconsin Democratic Party for some time as its Secretary, and she had helped with Bill's campaigns in that capacity in previous elections. It was mighty exciting to see and read about them on television, radio, in the newsreels and newspapers. Ellen, we know you must be proud of all that you did to insure Bill's success, and rightly so. As Senator Proxmire said, "She made the difference this time." Congratulations to you both.

We have a new baby to report. Joyce Eubank Todd and Howe have a little boy, Glen Wiley Todd, who was born June 2.

Amy Hickerson Dalton is teaching three classes in Economics—one at Westhampton and two at Richmond College. She and Addison painted the inside of their house this summer and their biggest difficulty was keeping the young ones out of the wet paint. She had seen Bev Ryland who told her that she was going to Bolivia with a friend of hers who lives there. Apparently, this is just a pleasure trip but Amy says she wouldn't be surprised if Bev decides to work there for a while.

Lucy Harvie, Virginia Gibson Stewart, Lelia Phillips Toone, Marian Lawton Kinzey and I went down to Libby Thompson Schmidt's lovely home on the Potomac River for a day and a night in July. We really had a fine time—good weather, and even better food. Libby and the children, Lee, Frank and Kathy, spent the summer there and Eddie came down on weekends. They came back to Richmond after Labor Day in time for Lee to go back to school.

Lelia Phillips Toone and Bob bought a very attractive home at 1003 Maple Avenue in Richmond and they moved into it in June. Lelia is now a "lady of leisure" since she has resigned from her job at Miller & Rhoads.

One other change of address comes from Peggy Clark Bowdler. Her mother wrote that the new address is Mrs. William G. Bowdler, c/o The United States Embassy, Havana, Cuba.

This has really been a wonderful summer—especially for trips to the beach and that's how I've spent most of my vacation. By taking a day's vacation onto a weekend, I've managed to spend right much time in the sun. Forgive me for going commercial on you, but Miller & Rhoads opened its second branch store this past August. It's in Roanoke and I was lucky enough to be able to be present for the events in connection with it. The best part was that I got to see Barbara Richie Branch. She and David really had a summer, but all has turned out well. David had spinal meningitis and was in the hospital for a good while and then had to go through a recuperation period. Fortunately, he got along just fine but everyone was quite worried for a while.

1947 Secretary
MRS. RICHARD F. ANDREWS
(Betty Tinsley Andrews)
3203 Enslow Avenue, Richmond 22, Va.

Beverly Patton Browne and her mother spent a week at Miami Beach before embarking on a four day cruise to Havana and Nassau. Bev noted a quite a contrast between these two places with "Havana being exciting and fascinating by day and by night and Nassau quaint and picturesque." July 26th was the day the boat docked in Havana and as they discovered from reading the newspaper the date set by the rebels for their attack. Fortunately nothing happened and Bev and her mother enjoyed their stay and returned by way of Atlanta, Georgia.

Going in quite the opposite direction were Jesse and Alice Mason Cralle. They enjoyed a trip to Goose Bay Harbor, Maine and other parts of New England. Stopping over in New York they saw "Damn Yankees."

Jack and Mimi Daffron Horigan enjoyed New York, too. Jack had been at Rutgers taking a course in banking. The Horigans also spent some time on the Potomac River.

Virginia Wagstaff was in Los Angeles for the summer on a National Science Foundation Scholarship. While there she took advantage of the opportunity to travel around the West Coast.

Carolyn Storm Pattie and family went out to Toledo, Ohio to see her parents. Her correct address is 5810 Guthrie Avenue, Richmond, Va.

Enjoying a river vacation were Marylou Coghill Poland and her family. Her children Leigh and Lydia are now 8½ and 6 years old respectively. Her outside activities are varied, for at present she is working for support of the newly organized Richmond Symphony and for next year will serve on the Board of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. She is an ardent chrysanthemum grower and plans to exhibit in both local and national shows.

The Cumbys "tent camped" for ten days in the National Forest Camp outside of Waynesboro. There, Marylou, Guy and the children Guyon and Betty-B enjoyed carefree hours of swimming and hiking.

Keeling Coles and Gin Ellett went to Virginia Beach and returned home after visiting Dottie James Foster and her family and Lena Thornton Small and her family. Gin spent the summer working at the American Research Laboratory.

Gussie, who is the head of the Physical Education Department at Binford Junior High School in Richmond, was the swimming instructor at the YWCA Day Camp at St. Catherine's. Her address is Betty Ann Gustafson, 4213 Grove Avenue, Richmond, Virginia.

As in the past three years, Lois Rynaldo taught summer school at John Marshall High School. She managed a week's vacation in the New England States. Lois is returning to Richmond after ten years at Hopewell and will teach at Hermitage this year.

Buddy and Betty Brown Parsons have moved to 46 Willway Avenue, Richmond, Virginia. They love having a back yard after being in an apartment.

Polly Jones Cousins and Charles moved to North Carolina on our reunion weekend. Their address is 706 Queen Street, Windsor, N. C. She wrote, "We like our new home fine and Charles is pleased with his job. He works for Lea Lumber Company." Milton and Verda Sletten Hobbs visited them in September.

Marion Collier Miller tutored and taught summer school. She said that John was feeling well and had enjoyed his best summer since he was taken sick.

Margaret Goode Vicars and Joe spent five days in New Orleans in June. They stayed at the Roosevelt Hotel. This trip was in connection with Joe's job as a salesman for the Equitable Life Insurance Company. They ate at lots of famous places and Margaret reported Antoine's was "fabulous."

A vacation in the Smokies and Charlotte, N. C. was the choice of Dan and Anne Higgins Borger. C. L. and Susie Gard Woody and Beth and Korrell spent some time at Jamestown and Virginia Beach. They took along two grandmothers to help babysit and had a very good time. Their week at Fairystone State Park was not only enjoyable but as Susie wrote "highly recommended for small children."

We were sorry to learn that several of the members of '47 had been ill this summer. Anne Young Lewis was quite seriously ill but is feeling her old self again. Betsy Slate Riley underwent major surgery in June and recuperated at her parents' home in South Boston for two months. The grandparents kept her two boys, Carson and Robert. Betsy is feeling fine now and she and Frank spent five days on the Rappahannock where it was peaceful and quiet, but where very few fish were to be found.

Anne Wiley Kelly writes "my summer activities haven't been much different from my winter ones except that now I have one more to take care of. Our son, Thomas Patrick, Jr., was born July 1st." He joins two little sisters.

Oris and Doris Pitman Rainey have discovered the fascination of taking colored home movies. Marion with his red hair is the subject of most of them. Doris also wrote that Oris had been elected one of the deacons at Smyrna Baptist Church in Dinwiddie.

Returning to school this fall will be Elsie Minter. She has resigned her job to become a student at Bryn Mawr College to complete work on her Ph.D., probably in French and English Literature. Her ultimate aim is to teach on the college level. Elsie's decision to continue her studies came about because she was approached by three Baptist Colleges to teach. We shall be looking forward to hearing more from you, Elsie.

No letter would be complete without a wedding. Dr. Julia Dickinson became Mrs. Wilbur Taylor Phillips on May 31, in Calvary Episcopal Church, Seaside, Oregon. The Phillips live at 7304 North Williams Avenue, Portland 11, Oregon and Julia is continuing with her career.

Check these addresses: Mrs. R. R. Allen, III (Martha Edwards), Chuckatuck, Virginia.

1950 Secretary
MRS. J. S. PIERCE JR. (Joyce Betts)
3434 Hanover Ave., Richmond, Va.

The Class of '50 certainly had an eventful summer! Two weddings and six babies are our latest news.

Wedding bells rang for Jane Edmonds and Aubrey Barnett July 13 in Accomac, Virginia. They are making their home in Alexandria, Virginia.

Ida Sparks Smith and Channing Moore Hall were married in Culpeper on August 3. Lodie Hickerson Wiley was on hand for the event. Ida and Channing are making their home in Williamsburg.

Aggie Field Burke and David are the proud parents of a little girl, Ann Wyatt, born May 22. Doris Lee saw them in June and reports that the baby is just as sweet as can be.

How happy I am to report that Libby Givens Pierce and Bucky are the parents of a little girl, Elizabeth Ann, born May 28. While vacationing in August, with their two sons and new baby, they saw Helen Lampathakis Kostyal and Dick.

Julie Wann Pittman and Al had a baby boy, Carey Steven, on June 12. Big brother, Christopher, is now 3 years old. Al has been called to the Underwood Memorial Baptist Church in Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, a suburb of Milwaukee.

Another girl, Sarah Celeste, was born to Jean Hart Joyner and Tal on June 17.

Stephen Randolph Anderson was born to Margaret Alexander Anderson and Saddler on June 23. What proud parents they are!

In May a third baby girl, Nancy, was born to Mary Byrd Goforth Hudson and Bill. Since then, Mary reports she has become a "master of disorganization." I had a nice letter from Mary Byrd saying how pleased she was with the class address list. If you didn't receive one, contact Mary Ann Bugg Lambert, 8311 Vernell Lane, Richmond, Virginia. She and her committee did a grand job distributing them and I am sure you want a list in time to address your Christmas cards.

Mary Byrd also wrote that Bill is a "ham" radio operator and she hopes to contact some of the girls indirectly. He has been trying to "get into" Tulsa to have a "ham" call Nancy Chapin. Mary Byrd and Bill are building a new home only a block from Lucia and Bob Barbour.

Jean Tinsley Martin and Roy have been in North Carolina where Roy was temporarily sent for his company. Jean and Roymac went along and vacationed at Wrightsville Beach and Lake Waccamaw, N. C.

Mary Howard Holloway writes that we have printed her address wrong again. She went to the University of Virginia this summer for a three weeks' course in aviation education. You probably remember that she has a plane! Later this summer Bill went to Masonic School for a week at Augusta Military Academy and Mary went along. She met Henrietta Dow Vinson and had a grand time.

Reporter Jean Bishop Porter, lucky girl, has been assigned to cover Queen Elizabeth's visit to Williamsburg. This summer she and Joe visited Nova Scotia and Canada and stayed at Ketlic Lodge on Cape Breton Island.

Mary Lee Rankin McCullough and Tom travelled abroad this summer. They visited London, Scotland, France, Holland and Germany where they purchased a Volkswagen. Then they drove to Nuremberg, Munich, Salzburg, Austria, Switzerland and along the Riviera. They sailed for Canada from Bremerhaven, Germany on August 4. What an interesting trip!

On September 6 Roberta Beattie began an exciting new chapter in her life. She is working as a librarian in Germany with the Special Services Department of the government.

Barbara Coleman and two friends had a fabulous vacation in Bermuda this summer.

Several members of our class vacationed in Florida this summer. Doris Lee Reeves Childress, Earl and Tripp spent a week there in August. Clarice and Fuzzy Price were also there in August and say that Miami Beach is heavenly. Mr. Ryland's baby sitting gave them the week alone. Emma Tilman Kay and Leslie visited Daytona Beach and took their 10 month old girl along.

Libby Rowse Wilson writes that Bob has gone into business for himself. It is known as Robert A. Wilson, Inc. and is a state licensed plumbing contracting business. Libby is contributing her bit to the hard work involved and says it is a wonderful new venture.

Frannie Sutton Oliver, Raymond and the two boys spent their vacation in Bluefield, West Virginia. Frances Chandler Long and Allen were visiting there also. Later the Olivers went to the Smokies for several days.

Rosa Lou Soles Johnston and Mandley recently moved into their new home on West Franklin Street in Richmond.

Nan Johnson Adams and Dean moved to Colonial Heights where Dean has accepted a position with Rickwisch Realty.

Virginia Brinson was in Richmond in September and talked to Lorraine Chapman. We understand she has a mighty fine boat.

Betty Finney Tuttle and Arthur have enjoyed life in Charleston and will be back at Chapel Hill this fall to continue studies in city planning. On their vacation at the Isle of Palms, South Carolina, they saw Jane Pitt Robinson, Hiter and three of their four children.

My family and I visited relatives in Kentucky and camped in the mountains this summer.

We will be collecting news again the first of December. Let us hear from you.

2. Jane Edmonds Barnett (Mrs. Aubrey S., Jr.)

1951 Secretary
MRS. DONALD A. WHITE (Elizabeth Gill)
4354 North Henderson Road,
Arlington, Va.

In this class, the biggest news at any time is that of a wedding and this time I have another one to report. Eleanor Easley married Donald Byron Barnes on June 20 at Wake Forest College, Winston-Salem, in the small chapel on the campus. Don is from W-S and is a graduate of UNC in business—"a little bit of heaven," so says our Eleanor! They are living in Charlotte, N. C. at 160 Perrin Place. Eleanor will teach kindergarten this year.

And then there are babies. Mark Edward Tonacci, son of Bob and Frances Arrighi Tonacci, weighed in on May 31. Another May baby was Charles David Dickinson, who arrived at the home of his parents, Boyd and Mary Ann Hubbard Dickinson. August 18 was the birth date of Andrew Christian Bowman, number three for Kitty and George. Incidentally, they moved this fall to South Boston where George began his duties as pastor of Faith Baptist Church on September 16.

There are several changes of address besides those already mentioned. Jane Lawson Patton and her family moved into their new home on about August 1, at 5107 Wythe Ave. in Richmond. They are glad to be rid of apartment dwelling and love their more spacious new quarters.

Another pleased new-home-owner is Mary Booth Watt, who now sports a most interesting address: 739 Indian Trail, Martinsville! She found her next-door neighbor to be Lou Gladding, WC '52!

One person who was not too happy about having to change her address is Paula Abernethy

Kelton. She and John have gone to Alabama where he will be teaching two psych courses at the University in Tuscaloosa, and also serving as director of the UA Testing Bureau of the Psych. Dept. They were sorry to leave Chapel Hill where they had bought a lot, but will surely profit from their new experiences. They live at University Court, Apt. 12 F, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Another professor's wife, Jane Ellis Babb, is now living in Syracuse, N. Y., where I presume he is teaching at the University. Their address is 216 Dorchester Ave., Apt. 1A.

Shirley Robertson had a long letter in the spring from Ann Baird Caulkin, who married Tom after her second year at WC, nine years ago! She was glad to be back in contact with the class and reported on her two little girls: Charlene, 4, and Bonnie, 1. Tom is well again after hepatitis last year and back at work as a busy pastor. Ann wrote: "The Class of 1951 will always be in my heart and bring back fond memories."

Betty Munsey Spatz called me the other day to report Paula's news and also said that Bob is out of service now, happily, and that he is working for the Internal Revenue Department in D. C. Betty is busy with 9-months-old Billy.

Summer vacations are over now, but news of them will be trickling in for some time to come. I even have some news of doings last spring! Anne Rogers Crittenden was down from Wilmington in Petersburg at Easter. She spent considerable time playing golf during her visit.

Joan Dalvé Heizer wrote that she visited her family in Louisville last spring. Marshall's mother was in the hospital for a while, so Joan was very busy and concerned. But she still found time to freeze lots of garden vegetables and says she enjoys country living!

In June Betty Tredway Blake, and Libba Eanes Baskerville of Emporia, and Mary Booth Watt of Martinsville, enjoyed attending their tenth high school reunions! Betty is now "veep" of the Emporia Jr. Woman's Club.

Also in June was a trip to Louisiana by Doris Goodwyn Bridgeforth and her husband for a wedding; and I understand that Eleanor Wright Weston and Billy were planning a trip to Virginia in June.

Helen Clark Hensley and Dick vacationed in Kentucky with her family this year. They saw Ann and Buddy Rosser recently and also stopped by to see Pete and Jeannette Aderhold Brown in Chatham.

Riggie Tonacci wrote that Piret Koljo had spent several pleasant days in the Catskills. We're always glad to hear about Piret and she is more faithful about keeping us posted than many a '51-er.

The main event of my summer was a two-weeks' stay in the hospital for an abdominal operation, my first of any kind. But I'm as good as new now and ready to plunge into the new season. Our church choir flourished during the summer and now enrollment is climbing. I have several playing engagements during October and November, so practicing is booming, too. Don is glad to be back at school. I'm terribly proud of his work there and this year promises to be the best yet, chorally speaking.

1952 Secretary

MRS. W. R. BEASLEY (Betty Hurt)
Building 3, Apt. 4, Diesel Housing Unit
Richmond, Virginia

At the reunion of the Class of 1952 in May, a committee was appointed to work out the plans for the Fred L. Watson Stanfield Memorial Fund. The members of the Class present at the reunion banquet voted to establish a loan fund and to place a permanent memorial on campus in Fred Lee's name.

After thorough investigation into several projects, including an outdoor drinking fountain, a speaker's rostrum for the Greek Theatre, and a stone bench, it was discovered that these projects required a substantial amount of money—more than the committee felt could be collected.

It has been decided that the gift most appropriate for Fred Lee's memorial would be a loan fund. The loan fund would be available to any qualified Westhampton student to be used toward her college expenses, with the understanding that she would start to pay back the loan after graduation. Thus the fund would continue from year to year and be a perpetual memorial in Fred Lee's name.

All classmates and friends who would like to give to the Fred Lee Memorial Fund are requested to send their contributions as soon as possible to the Alumnae Office Westhampton College, University of Richmond, Virginia.

As your letter space was used for this important announcement, our next news letter will be extra long. Do please send in your changes of address to your group leader and let's have have an item about everyone.

1953 Secretary

MRS. JOHN W. GUY, III (Segar White)
221 North Thomas St., Arlington 3, Va.

Is it possible that we are beginning our fifth year as alumnae? Indeed it is, and time also to look forward to our reunion next spring. More details of that will be forthcoming before long.

Only two wedding have come to my attention during the summer. Marietta Carr and Howard Kinney Glascock were married at McKinney, Va. on July 6. She is teaching this year while he attends law school in Richmond.

Gayle Mephram is now Mrs. John Ray Hensley. Their new address is 426 Barry Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

New baby girls are in the news this time. Mary Theresa was born to Barbara Warren Reardon and Jack July 26. June Pair Carter and Mann are thrilled with their Rebecca Marie, who was born August 26.

Jo Fugate Harris writes that her daughter, Pamela Elizabeth, was born on March 20, 1957 during Charley's exams at V.P.I. Nevertheless, he graduated in July, and they now live at 810 Johnson St., Monroe, North Carolina, where Charley is a highway construction estimator.

Beanie Davenport Bosley and Jack have moved to 1311 N. Ode St., Arlington, Va. She is a reservations clerk for American Airlines and he works with a public housing organization.

Betty Jane Williams Potter and Dean reside at 409 Virginia Avenue, Oceana, Va. now that he is out of service. B. J. has joined the Norfolk Alumnae Club and is teaching again this year.

Pat Moran Talley's address is now Manchester, Maryland.

Ruby Vaughan Carson and Don have moved to 1010 Findley Drive, West, Apt. 8, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Ginny LeSueur Carter and Bill are living at 2425 Longview Avenue, S. W., Roanoke, Va. Ginny writes that she, like Ruby, has "retired" from her job, and intends to become a lady of leisure. Bill has been kept quite busy with preparations for the opening of the new Miller & Rhoads store in Roanoke.

Doris Johnston is an archives assistant with the National Academy of Sciences of the National Research Council located in Washington, D. C.

Gladys Tatarsky has changed jobs and is very enthusiastic about her work with the Esso Company in Richmond.

Carla Waal moved to New York City in August to work for the American Choral Foundation. Her address is 151 East 36th St. During the summer she was assistant director for "Life With Father" which St. Catherine's Summer theater produced.

Summer vacations scattered some of our members far and wide. Methyl Young Bruce, Billy and the girls visited in New York City several days. In trips to the beach they saw Lois Moody Mackey and Sue Bentley Fain with their families.

Billy Bruce began a new job in June with the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Mary K. Manuel Clark and Dr. Clark spent five weeks at their lakeside cottage in Maine. She is teaching English part-time at Clark County High School, besides attending to numerous church duties which include being advisor to the church kindergarten.

Mildred Gambill and Betty Guthrie motored to Detroit for a July vacation.

Margaret Gooch Williams and Tommy spent some time in Florida. So did Lou George Wolfe and Billy, who was a representative to the Kappa Sigma convention in Miami.

From Scotland came word of Jane Wilson Ralston and Holmes who were planning a tour to England and Ireland in August. Jane continues to admire the lovely Scottish landscapes and is enjoying her job as a secretary to the Netherlands Consulate in Edinburgh.

The summer had its more serious side for Jane Sheema and Rosa Ann Thomas who were beginning graduate work at the University of Virginia. Rosa Ann plans to take advantage of a fellowship awarded her and continue work towards a master's degree this winter.

Connie Shuford Vilas and Pinky have moved to New York so that he may attend graduate school at Columbia University.

We are saddened to learn that the two-year-old daughter of Patti Thompson Stoy passed away August 3. Harriet Wheat Fralin, Methyl Young Bruce, and Janet Francis Midgett came to Arlington to be with the family at that time. We extend deepest sympathy to the Stoy's.

As usual there remain some bits of news too interesting to hold back but not specific enough to state as facts. For instance, Nancy O'Niell may return this fall from abroad where her headquarters for the past year have been Orleans, France. Jackie Gustin Boek and her husband are reported to be back from the West and living in Roanoke. Lastly, by the time you receive your fall Bulletin, Will and I may have a new Maryland address—my sixth change in five years. Please don't let this keep you from sending news to me, as the present Arlington address will suffice until further notice.

1954 Secretary

MRS. EDWARD EARL DUNKLEE
(Beverly Burke)
2210 Skipwith Road, Richmond 26, Va.

We want to thank Carol Jones for the hard work she has put on our newsletter for three years. She is retiring now, and I shall try it for awhile.

Shirley Bruckman Martin has a new daughter, Judith Roe, who was born on July 28. She and Bob are at Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, where she did some work last year on her master's degree.

Atlanta, Georgia has claimed quite a number of our class. Mary Lou Gilbert Dorsey and John have been sharing their motor boat with Ola Hill Kruger and John there, we hear. Ann Burnet is also there at Emory University Hospital, where she is enjoying her work as a physical therapist.

Another Georgian now, Jane Gill Tombs and Averett have made their home in Ft. Stewart. They were married on June 15. Jane Betts Schmitt, Beverley French, and I were members of the wedding party.

Beverley French spent her vacation in Spain this year. On her return, one of the local newspapers wrote of her trip, showing a picture of her and her companion. It seems that she lost her suitcase en route, but was so tired, she just laughed—as usual—about it. She saw the bull fights, and ate octopus steak, among other things.

Edith Burnett Grimes's second daughter, Susan, arrived on June 21, and promises to be as cute as her "big sister."

Betty Dowdy spent the summer at the University of Maine, taking education courses. Anyway, it must have been cool!

Linda Goodman Lewis and Denby are back in Richmond now. He will take courses at U. of R. this year, after which he plans to enter dental school at MCV. Linda is teaching fourth grade in Chesterfield County, and writing a children's book!

Susie Keegan Nuttle's baby is so large now, people are beginning to wonder when he will stop sponging off his parents, and look for a job.

Sue Perry Downing and Tom stayed with us a few days this summer. They left for Edinburgh, Scotland, September 19, on the United States. Tom will do work there on his doctor's degree.

Mary Helen Stewart Lawrence and Nim are back at Southern Seminary now, after being in Germany with the Armed Forces. They have another little boy. We hear that Nim, Jr. is the image of his daddy.

Jane Watkins Reid's little boy, Johnny is talking now. She and her husband, Lou, have moved to Lynchburg, where he has set up practice.

Barbara Konkle Duke's little Kenny is sprouting teeth and growing by leaps and bounds.

Nancy Graham Harrell and Walter have a little girl, Kimberly, born May 27. We welcome them as our neighbors. They moved this fall into their new home, just a few blocks from us.

Barbara Magyar is back in Richmond, studying art at R.P.I., after which she plans to take an overseas job with the government in her field of Occupational Therapy.

1955 Secretary MRS. ALEXANDER P. McCULLOUGH (Alice Creath)

It's time again to hear from "Club '55" and as usual many members of the Class have exciting news that they wish to pass on to you! As many of you know, Alice Creath McCullough has had a busy summer so I agreed to pinch-hit for her this issue. Alice became Mrs. Alexander (Piggy) McCullough on June 22. Alice's sister, Mary Creath Payne, ('53) was matron of honor. '55'ers from out of town at the wedding were Betty Jean Parrish Knott, Margaret English, Dottie Smoker Neilsen and myself. Alice and Piggy worked at a camp in Maine this summer and are now living in Annville, Pa. where Piggy has returned to his schooling at Lebanon Valley and Alice is teaching first grade in the local school system.

We extend our best wishes to Pat Minor Aldhizer who was married to George Aldhizer in early summer. They are residing in Charlottesville where Pat is working at the new Miller and Rhoads store.

Our percentage of girls engaged goes up a couple of notches as Margaret English and Beulah Boston join the ranks. Margaret has announced her engagement to Morton Waid Lester of Martinsville, Va. Morton is now a student at V.P.I. while Margaret is teaching at Martinsville again. An early winter wedding is planned. Beulah Boston is engaged to Al Hanson, a marine stationed now at Kingsville, Texas. She also plans a winter wedding.

We send our best wishes to the four potential members of the Class of 1979 of U.R. William Andrew Dize was born to Polly Bundick Dize on May 11th. ents of Scott Allen Orell who was born on August 21st. We also received news that Reneé Gartner Diamonstein had a little boy, Richard, born on June 1st.

Jim, Peggy Armstrong Clark and daughter visited Alice McCarty and Ginny Swain Saunders in Boston this summer. Jim is the assistant pastor of a church in Portsmouth. Pat Stump of Cincinnati also spent her vacation in Boston visiting Alice and Ginny, while Alice saw more of her Westhampton friends in Richmond where she spent a couple of days of her vacation.

Dr. Henry Kahn and his wife, Marjorie Moeschler Kahn, will remain in Richmond where Henry will intern at MCV and Marjorie will teach school this fall.

Virginia Murden spent her vacation visiting Mary Anne Logan Morgan in Salem and Betty L. Stembridge Leggett in South Boston. Sunshine had as a visitor Norma Lee (Toppy) Kailing Eanes and her husband. Toppy has completed nursing training.

Vacationing in Maryland and the Eastern Shore were Betty Jean Parrish Knott and Charlie with Betty Jean's family. Crittenden Kauffman and Myron travelled also as they visited several cities considering places where Myron might intern next year. South of the border were Virginia Thomas Phillips and Earle. Another '55'er joined the IBM staff in Richmond as Nancy Johnson White began work there the first of September. We have enough working at IBM from our class to have alumnae meetings during lunch hour.

1956 Secretary MISS CAROLYN BAKER 3405 Fendall Ave., Richmond, Va.

The new mamas make the top news in our class column this fall. Phyllis and Lou Wacker's Bruce Elizabeth is the owner of our baby cup. Mama Phyllis phoned with this news and also informed me that she is now teaching algebra and geometry at Manchester High School in Chesterfield County.

Margie Kantner Snader and George welcomed a wonderful boy, Douglas Earl, May 24.

Julia Hubbard became Mrs. Samuel A. Nixon, June 15. She and Sam, a '55 graduate of the University of Richmond, are living in Franklinton, N. C., where she is teaching the sixth grade. Sam is attending Southeastern Seminary.

Jack and Lillian Stephenson Stroud are all settled in their charming little home at 201 Bracey Drive in Suffolk. Lillie is teaching at Suffolk High School, and one of her subjects is French! Jack is still very much the boat-racing enthusiast. Two weeks after the wedding he was the only double winner at the annual Tappahannock Independence Day regatta, and Jack's won many a race since then, too.

Speaking of boating, Ann Peery has been a very busy gal recently. She's been trying to keep up with all the boating news, has moved from apartment to an apartment on South Boulevard, recently became a technician, and has been a bridesmaid in three summer weddings—Lillian's and Jack's, Thelma Flynn's and Marshall Helm's, and Janet Butler's and Bob Barker's.

Mot Boatwright Rice and Gerry have a son, Nathaniel Gerhardt, who was born the middle of September.

Thelma and Marshall have set up housekeeping at 2417 Guilford Avenue in Roanoke. She reports that she and Marshall are having loads of fun getting their house fixed up.

Another of Thelma's bridesmaids, Alice Holaday, returned to school this fall. She is studying at Southeastern Seminary.

Jan and Ferrell Atkins again spent the summer at Rocky Mountain National Park in Estes Park, Colorado, where he served as a ranger-naturalist for the Park Service. Jan had an unusual tale to tell about their trip home. Their car engine broke down in Marysville, Kansas, and they had to buy a new ranch wagon. The Atkins' now own the only car in the state with Virginia license plates and a Kansas inspection sticker. Jan is teaching first and second year algebra at Freeman.

Jody Weaver Wampler is helping me out with the French teaching at Freeman (and doing a mighty fine job, too!), as I have had a third-year French class added, the only one in the Henrico high schools. This year I am helping out with the National Honor Society and Student Cooperative Association of the school, and I still have the wonderful sophomore class under my supervision.

Marilyn Sorce is still another teacher new to the ranks this year. Our senior class president is teaching English in Waynesboro High School.

Ann App has gone from elementary to high school teaching. She is an eighth and ninth-grade English teacher at Manchester.

Ann Pope Richman and John have bought their home in the southside of Richmond.

We end this issue's column with an engagement: Shirley Evans to James Edward Flournoy. A November wedding is in the offing.

Please keep the letters coming in, especially those of you with whom we seem to have lost contact.

It's hard to believe that so many changes have taken place in just three months. To begin our first news as alumnae, let's travel across the Atlantic to our two Fulbright Scholars. Rosalind Allen sailed for England on the seventh of September on the "United States," and she is residing now at Highfield Hall, University of Southampton, Southampton, England. Mary Katherine Davis sailed the tenth of September on the "M.S. Berlin," and her new address is c/o U. S. Educational Commission, Bad Godesberg, Kaiserstrasse 3, Germany. Best wishes to both of them as they begin their studies abroad.

Until just a few days ago I still had the baby cup, but I have just heard that Barbara Goodman Burton is now the mother of a little girl. So, her daughter is now the proud possessor of the baby cup from the class of 1957. Congratulations to you, Barbara!

Also, congratulation go to Judy Hecht Goodman and Barry on the birth of their son, William Elliot Goodman, who arrived on July 24th.

Just one week later, July 31, Margaret Logan Ball and George became parents of James Austin Ball. George is stationed in Florida, and their new address is Grandview Apts, No. 3, Warrington, Florida.

WESTHAMPTON ALUMNAE LOCAL CLUBS

Eastern Shore Club

President: MRS. RICHARD TULL (Barbara Bull '54)
Pocomoke, Maryland

The Westhampton Club of the Eastern Shore heard interesting news fresh from the campus and elected two new officers at the spring luncheon May 25, at the Eastville Inn.

Mrs. C. E. Critcher, of New Church, was elected Vice President, and Mrs. Amos Russell, of Cheriton, Treasurer, immediately after their names were presented by the nominating committee, Mrs. Paul Watts and Mrs. William T. Roberts, Jr.

Miss Caroline S. Lutz, Professor of English at Westhampton, gave a delightful view of life at the college now.

The careful screening of applicants for admission means students high in scholarship, she said. Two of this year's Seniors have been appointed Fulbright scholars for study abroad, and the Freshman class has the highest scholastic average in the history of the college.

Miss Lutz also spoke of the increased interest in classical music, the new library, the Boatwright lectures, the psychological testing services set up in the former library, and the new look in dormitory life, including TV, automatic laundry equipment used without charge, and public address systems. The daisy chain ceremony is being abandoned, but the girls are holding on to some features of that tradition.

Mrs. R. E. Booker, Alumnae Secretary, after some news of special interest to the R. F. I.—Woman's College alumnae, announced that the Emily Gardner Memorial Fund has passed its goal and the Maude Woodfin Memorial is making its first grant for graduate work in history. The Swimming Pool Fund has increased by $29,000 making it over $50,000 but still only a fraction of the amount necessary.

Mrs. Richard Tull, of Pocomoke City, President of the Club, introduced the speakers and presided over the brief business session following the program. She appointed Miss Jessie Jarvis and Mrs. Critcher as co-chairmen of committees to study money-making ideas and report at the autumn meeting. The club voted to contribute $25.00 from the treasury to the Swimming Pool Fund.

Washington Club

President: MRS. H. MONROE RADLEY (Ellen Acree) 3701 R St., N.W., Washington 7, D. C.

Area meetings of the Washington Club started off this year's program.

A group of Virginia "Forties" had a luncheon at the Army-Navy Country Club and elected a new chairman. Libby Johnson Alvis, '40. Elma Ashton's resignation had been accepted with regret during the summer. An area meeting is scheduled for early fall.

The District of Columbia members met with co-chairmen Estelle Butler, '18, and Frances Burnette, '27, at Estelle's home. A group fund project will be presented at the November general membership meeting. Since seven present were on the Executive Board, there was also opportunity to discuss plans for the Washington Club.

Last year's Maryland Group chairman, Gray Robinson French, '28, has called a meeting on October 8 to elect a new chairman. Dorothy Vickers Hall, '47, will serve as secretary-treasurer this year.

One of our very new alumnae, Lee Feild, '57, and representatives from the "Fifties" will participate in the annual College Night Program to be held on November 4 at Western High School. This is an excellent opportunity to publicize Westhampton and to interest area girls in our college.

The Washington Club is compiling a new directory, and Joanne Waring, '50, Membership Chairman, plans to have it ready soon. Corrections and additions will be welcomed; just phone Joanne or drop her a postal.

Our 50¢ engagement calendars continue to be "best sellers." We are delighted with the pictures of Miss Keller and "friends" that Buck Ashton had made from the Times-Dispatch article; also 50¢. Both will be available at the fall general membership meeting, or may be ordered from area chairmen.

There are 3 new appointments to the Executive Board of the Club: PUBLICITY, Martha Jones, '50, Chairman; PROGRAM, Marty Lowry Green, '50, Chairman, and Dorothy Knibb, '27, Co-Chairman. The Program Committee is busy planning the November meeting for all three areas of the Washington Club.

SPIDER TEACHERS TO MEET

Arrangements have been made for the fourth annual luncheon for our alumnae and alumni who will attend the meeting of the Virginia Education Association in Richmond, October 31 and November 1.

Letters are being sent to all our graduates who are believed to be teaching in Virginia this year. If, by chance, you do not get a letter, it will be because your current address is not known to the Department of Education.

Consider this announcement a cordial invitation to visit the University of Richmond Room in the Hotel John Marshall and attend the luncheon to be held promptly at 12:45 p.m. Friday, November 1 in the Lee Room of the Hotel John Marshall. If you have not already mailed your luncheon reservation, write Dean Edward F. Overton, '31, today.

DODD MEMORIAL DEDICATED

An altar of Honduras mahogany has been presented to the Berryman Methodist Church of Richmond by officers of the Federal Reserve Bank in memory of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodfin Dodd.

The Dodds died from injuries received in an automobile accident last year. Mr. Dodd, '33, was assistant vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank. Mrs. Dodd had been superintendent of the Berryman Intermediate Sunday School Department for ten years.

BOWLING RETIRES DEAN

Professor Robert Bowling has retired as dean of Judson College at Marion, S. C., after a long and fruitful career in education. He had served not only as dean but as professor of psychology and education since 1938.

He is still identified with the college as dean emeritus and maintains an office on the campus.

Professor Bowling went to Judson College after serving for 13 years as principal of various high schools in Virginia.

His honors include membership in Phi Delta Kappa, Sigma Delta Phi, Alpha Psi Omega, and Phi Alpha Theta.

VOODOO: FULLY EXPLAINED

David

Wally

The sign says: Canape Vert. Home of Interesting Native Handicrafts. Creator of Finest Haitian Sculptures.

Back of the sign for the tourist shop at Port-Au-Prince, Haiti are two enthusiastic brothers—David, '53, and Wally Talamas—who went to the tourists to find out what they wanted as reminders of the time they spent in Haiti.

To get the information, the brothers went on the night club circuit regularly to talk with tourists. Their informal poll has paid handsome dividends.

Today, the Talamas brothers have 16 wood carvers, 27 work after they finish their daily classes at an industrial school. In addition, their sister Alice and six sales girls help handle the tourist trade.

David and Wally, who is an alumnus of Virginia's Hargrave Military Academy, found in their poll that tourists could buy all the mahogany salad bowls they wanted, but couldn't find a varied collection of wooden anthropological specimens.

An article in the Haiti Sun said the brothers also found that tourists want value for their money and that they "will not buy an unusual voodoo design until its mythological significance—if any—is fully explained."

This article added that "the carved death masques which the Canape Vert has in dozens of original designs are now in vogue in salons and dining rooms throughout the world as a chic wall ornament."

The Talamas brothers, The Sun said "feel it is their carved highly polished Haitian oak drums that have helped build their store's reputation abroad. A Hougan (voodoo priest) whose family has been making drums for generations supplies the Canape Vert with the artistically carved tambours which receive ritual blessings before they go on sale at the store. They are the same drums that would hold honored places in any hounfort (voodoo temple)."

Meanwhile, David and Wally continue to make the night club rounds, promising—and delivering—"an immense array of figurines, bowls, trays, carvings and sculptures" for Haiti's holiday visitors.

It's time to stop this nonsense

From every college in the nation comes the warning, "We're losing good professors faster than we can find them, yet our classrooms are growing more crowded each year. What will be the effect on our country, and on its citizens, if this trend continues?"

The warning has sound basis. Low salaries—characteristic in teaching—are driving gifted instructors and professors into other fields, and are discouraging promising young people from taking up academic careers. Classrooms and laboratories are overflowing now with students, and yet applications are expected to double in the next 10 years.

It's amazing that a nation such as ours, strengthened and enriched by our institutions of higher learning, should allow anything to threaten these wellsprings of our progress.

It's time to stop this nonsense.

In a very real sense, our personal and national well-being depends on the quality of learning nourished and transmitted by our colleges and universities. They need the help of all who love freedom, all who hope for our continued advancement in science, in statesmanship, in the better things of life. And they need it now!

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, send for the free booklet "The Closing College Door" to: Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36, N. Y.
